Hudson Store Reported For Pipestone Mall

By MIKE WYNDARDEN
Staff Writer

Reports surfaced yesterday that the parent firm of the J.L. Hudson department store chain has signed a contract as an anchor store at the proposed Pipestone Mall, Benton township.

Officials of the chain and the Meyer C. Weiner Co., Oak Brook, Ill., developer of the mall, would neither confirm nor deny the reports.

The reports were made at a meeting of the Benton Harbor city planning commission where Mayor Charles F. Joseph and Lynn Meyer, city planning director, said they had learned Dayton-Hudson, parent firm of J.L. Hudson, had signed a contract for a major store in the mall and that construction would begin in 1977.

Joshua Weiner, head of sales for Weiner Co., would not confirm or deny it. He said a joint announcement would be made within 60 days on stores that plan to locate at the mall.

Janice Noonan, director of the news bureau for J.L. Hudson in Detroit also said she could not confirm or deny the report. She said the company does not announce construction projects with completion dates later than three years away.

A meeting is scheduled Friday between the mall developers and TWIN-CATS (Twin Cities Area Transportation Study), a group which studies area transportation needs, to discuss widening of Pipestone road for the mall, according to city planner Meyer. The mall was first announced in 1974. The Weiner Co. purchased 300 acres between Pipestone road, I-94 and Napier avenue. No stores have yet been built.

Word that construction would begin at the mall was received as a setback by the city planning commission because the mall will draw business away from the city.

In a roundtable discussion at the Benton Harbor Holiday Inn, the planning commission informally agreed that long range planning for the city will have to be changed and City Manager James Peoples, Jr., suggested that the city will have to focus on development of "service-oriented" businesses such as office complexes and government buildings.

Mayor Charles Joseph described development of the mall as "a plan-in-the-making" for several years by organizations and people from outlying areas to kill the development of business in Benton Harbor.

The Herald-Palladium was blamed for emphasizing "bad news and political turmoil" in Benton Harbor. "I know from my own experience," Dr. Thomas Woodford, a planning commissioner, said, "that if you tell people long enough that they are sick, they will start believing you."

Regardless of plans for the mall, the planning commissioners reaffirmed its position to continue with plans to rehabilitate and develop business in the downtown section of Benton Harbor.

A contract for $12,000 to the Benton Harbor architectural firm of Wayne C. Hatfield and Associates has been approved to conduct an inventory of buildings in the downtown section of the city.

Don't Cut Jefferson, St. Joe Board Told

By STEVE SAGER
Staff Writer

Overwhelming support for keeping Jefferson elementary school open was voiced at a meeting between the St. Joseph board of education and about 150 people, mostly parents of Jefferson pupils, held last night at the school.

No decision was reached by the board last night on whether to close the school. However, one result of the meeting was the development of plans for a survey of the entire St. Joseph school district to be conducted by school officials and concerned school district residents.

Dennis Percy, business manager for the school district said the survey is tentatively scheduled to be conducted the last week in April and the first week in May. He said about 30 volunteers would be needed to help with the survey which would provide school board members with up-to-date information about the district to help them with their decision.

Percy said after last night's meeting that about 30 people had signed up to help with the survey.

Last month the board of education announced it was considering closing Jefferson and Milton junior high school for economy reasons and declining enrollment. Percy said if Jefferson were closed except for administrative use the school district would get a net savings of about $12,000 a year. He said the savings would go up each year depending on the rate of inflation.

Board President Ray Dumke at the beginning of the meeting said he didn't think anyone wanted to see Jefferson school closed, but said, "It's a question of how to provide the best education system for our dollars."

Prior to comments from the audience two Jefferson students, Rick Waning and Mike Laccabue, presented Dumke with a petition signed by 102 Jefferson students asking that the school be kept open. Rick Waning is the son of George Waning, athletic director and assistant principal at St. Joseph high school.

Most of the comments from the floor, many of which were followed by short bursts of applause, centered around Jefferson school only. However, a number of people said their comments about Jefferson stood for Milton junior high as well since their children would be going to Milton after leaving Jefferson.

No one spoke in favor of closing Jefferson.

A number of comments and questions urged the board to set priorities before reaching a decision. As a number of speakers put it, "Would the money saved offset the educational values that might be lost by closing Jefferson?"

One woman read a letter she received from Flster Realty in reference to the closing of Jefferson. She said the letter stated

Williams Petitions To Be Filed

Hager said petitions also would be filed this week for recall of Second Ward Commissioner Charles Shepherd to complete the filing procedure against the five members of the city commission who are recall targets.

Paw Paw Group Carries Rate Protest To Lansing

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

LANSING — A delegation of about 20 Paw Paw area residents and businessmen met with Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley and the state public service commission yesterday in voice opposition to a proposed rate hike being sought by the General Telephone company.

Ted Plaszczak, a spokesman for a group calling itself the Michigan Association for the Preservation of Public Utilities Services, said officials told him any decision on the increase could be several months away.

General Telephone is seeking a $10.2 million rate hike to offset what it says are increased costs and to attract new investors.

Plaszczak said Kelley told him that he felt the public service commission has been acting to protect the utilities and not the consumer. Kelley said he was angered by the way utilities were able to bring large groups of attorneys to rate hearings to fight the opposition to increases, which the public eventually ends up paying for in higher rates, according to Plaszczak.

Following the meeting with Kelley, the group attended a hearing before the public service commission. Plaszczak said he charged at the hearing that the proposed rates listed by General Telephone were misrepresentations.

He pointed out that according to the utility, a key rotary (push button) phone system cost $34.55 and would be increased to $41.70 if the rate hike were granted. However, Plaszczak said, the $34.55 figure only represents one line, and a key rotary system by definition is two or more lines. To get a representative figure, the $34.55 price would actually have to be doubled, Plaszczak said. In addition there's an extra $2.70 per phone charge the company does not show on its rate schedule, he noted.

The same system offered Michigan Bell Telephone company, in neighboring Kalamazoo county would only cost $40.70, Plaszczak said. He said representatives of the attorney general's office assured him they would look into the matter.

"We haven't got the kind of money General Telephone has to keep pouring into this fight," Plaszczak said, "but we do have the voting power to oppose those legislators who support the public service commission."

The group traveled to Lansing yesterday in a 10-car caravan and met with State Rep. Bela Kennedy (R-Bangor) prior to meeting with Kelley.

Additional hearings on the rate request are scheduled for March 18 at Muskegon and March 23 at Gaylord. The utilities association has scheduled a meeting for 7:30 p.m. April 6 at the St. Julian Wine company, Paw Paw, to plan further strategy.

Nearly 200 auto mechanics and body repairmen agreed in Benton Harbor Tuesday that the new state Motor Vehicle Service and Repair registration act will cause financial hardships on shop owners and customers alike.

They voiced their protests during an information meeting, sponsored by the Michigan Department of State in the Benton Harbor public library.

About 100 are expected to travel to Lansing Thursday to protest the new act, and then to the Ingham county courthouse at Mason, where a suit challenging the act is scheduled to be heard, according to George Schmalbach, partner in the Selfridge body shop, 2054 M-130, Benton township.

Some of the mechanics said they will close their shops Thursday, but closings will be on an individual basis, it was reported.

Following the information meeting to detail the act, about half the remaining audience agreed to a caravan for the Lansing trip. It was scheduled to form at 5:30 a.m. at the I-94 rest area near Carmody road, just west of Calhoun off the eastbound lane.

The formal meeting was presided over by James D. Hunsucker, director, repair facility division, Department of State Bureau of Automotive Regulation. This agency administers the act, approved by the legislature and signed into law by Gov. William Milliken. The act was approved after ex-

A horse discovered missing Tuesday from the barn of a Hagar township farm was found by its owners with its ears badly cut and five saddles were reported stolen from the barn.

Parrish said the ears appeared to have been cut deliberately because the cuts were clean and the same on each ear. He did not know if the horse had been ridden.

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

St. Patrick's Day Time-Honored In U.S.

March 17, the legendary date of St. Patrick's death in the fifth century, long has been celebrated in honor of Ireland's patron saint. This is the day every year that an Irishman's chest expansion is always a bit larger and when he carries his head a bit higher than is his wont.

America has celebrated St. Patrick's Day from the early days of its history. Records show that a Boston gathering honored the occasion in 1737. On March 17, 1780, Gen. George Washington, at camp in Morristown, N.J., cited the significance of the date in his orders of the day.

In 1870, two decades after the great potato blight in Ireland had seen 1.5 million persons leave the Irish Isles, the Irish were the largest single group of foreign-born in America. In 1880 the German-born ranked first and by 1930 the U.S. census showed only 500,000 natives of Ireland living in the U.S. — only 5 per cent of all foreign-born residents.

So the great influx is over. But the contribution to America of the sons and daughters of Ireland has been unique and pervasive.

Lawyers Man The Lansing Ramparts

Until fairly recent times, lawyers and farmers constituted the occupationally oriented majority in the Michigan legislature. Persons from a small business background made up the other bloc of consequence.

A like pattern prevailed in Congress.

The mix has changed substantially from that historical bench mark, noticeably so at Lansing and to a lesser degree at Washington.

There are not as many farmers as there used to be and organized labor now enjoys the occupational plurality in the high density industrial states.

Last year Carl Smith, Jr., a Bay City attorney, circularized Michigan's 8,000 or so lawyers with a warning it is no coincidence that the lawyer population in the Michigan legislature has shrunk to 10 per cent and a host of statutes and bills to reduce the need for an attorney's services in many areas is rising.

From this emerged an organization he called LAWPAAC, the Lawyers Political Action Committee.

A few days ago the Berrien county chapter chairman sent out a flyer urging a $15 enrollment fee be forwarded by return mail to fight what LAWPAAC styles the anti-lawyers forces in the Michigan and national legislatures.

The flyer described, six danger areas, workmen's compensation, domestic relations, public defender, probate and estates, negligence, and conveyancing, as actual and potential battlegrounds.

LAWPAAC's intention is to fire away at any candidate for Lansing or Washington who does not publicly proclaim an intention to preserve those domains for the attorneys.

A closer look at the situation indicates a case of overreaction.

The beef on workmen's compensation is a recent Michigan law reducing the plaintiff's maximum fee of 25 per cent of an award to around 15 per cent. Since representing a claimant in a Michigan compensation case is the same as shooting fish in a barrel, this is a change for the better, at least the injured claimant or his estate benefits more from the mishap.

The outcry in domestic relations and negligence refers to no-fault divorce and no-fault automobile actions. Though easier today to dump a spouse, the arguments on child custody and property settlements have increased. No-fault in the automobile field has cleared to some extent the underbrush in small claims, but complicated settling the after effect problems once somebody is paid for a dented fender. No-fault has created more litigation than ever in divorce and automobile negligence; and this means more lawyering rather than less.

Another complaint on no-fault divorce is the same directed to probate and estates. This is the do-it-yourself approach. Though loudly touted by its exponents as the way to obtain results quicker and cheaper than hiring a lawyer, it has not worked out as claimed for it; and as is the case of a layman trying to muddle through a problem for which he has no training, the outcome causes more mistakes and eventually more business for the lawyers than if he had never looked at a do-it-yourself kit.

The argument on conveyancing is not caused by legislative action but by the Michigan Supreme Court. A few years ago the court ruled that a real estate agent could make out a deed, land contract or mortgage without being guilty of practicing law without a license if the paperwork was incidental to handling the entire transaction. Presumably the legislature could redefine what is practicing law without a license, but it occurs to us LAWPAAC might better advise its judicial brethren to take another look at the decision.

The public defender complaint is more complicated. By court ruling everywhere, it is an obligation of the public treasury to provide counsel for the indigent defendant; and in most states, including Michigan, it is a lawyer's duty to accept a court appointment for that purpose.

Because most of them are not particularly skilled in criminal practice as is F. Lee Bailey, to cite one shining example, and because the court ordered defense fees run to the low side, the public defender as a contracted practitioner has come into vogue.

There is a proposal to allow the indigent defendant to request a public defender of his choosing rather than by the court's automatic referral to the contracted defense counsel.

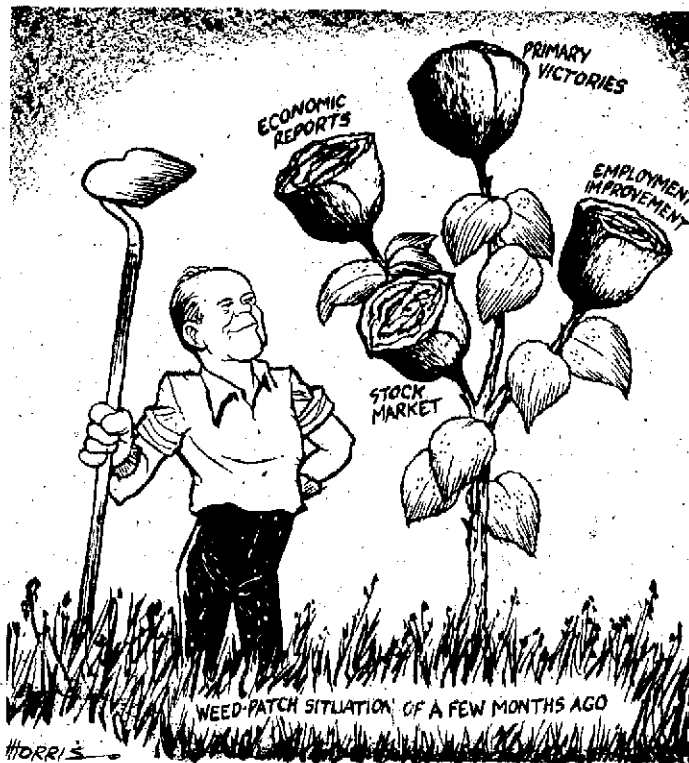

We agree with LAWPAAC this plan would develop into another sample of lofty theory turning out some unwanted results.

Unless, however, the battling average improves beyond one in six trips to the plate, LAWPAAC might better put its energies to taking the kinks out of the legal system so as to win it greater public acclaim than it now enjoys.

'Rescind Your Racist Remarks,' Fellow Dentist Asks Dr. Taylor

Editor,

I must take violent exception to some of the statements made by Dr. Harcel Taylor in your headline story concerning the phasing out of the Dental Clinic.

I'm sure that the Lakeland Valley Dental Society will respond to some of the charges and inaccuracies. However, I would like to address myself to one.

To say, "Let's face it — they do not want those little black children in their offices. That's why they're all moving to St. Joseph," is a racist remark and Dr. Taylor should not lower himself to this kind of attack.

I have been present at all of the meetings between Dr. Taylor and the Dental Society, the truth of the matter is that Dr. Taylor NEVER said this to the Dental Society.

As a matter of fact, Dr. Taylor told the Dental Society that if we thought that there was no need for the Clinic he would close down.

Personally, I moved from Benton Harbor a year and a half ago for several reasons. One of the reasons, however, was NOT to avoid having black children come to my office. The reasons I moved were because my lease was not renewed, there were no suitable offices to rent, and I did not feel it was in my best interest to invest money in building a building in an area where property values are plummeting.

Presently, we have many black children and adults, some Medicaid, some not, in our practice. We're glad to have them as patients.

Most of the dentists in the Twin Cities area participate in the Medicaid program and none of them take "white only" Medicaid patients.

Dr. Taylor, please, please, rescind your racist remarks.

CALLS AIRPORT FUEL PRICES 'RIP-OFF'

Editor,

A recent report in your newspaper quoted Ron Monamy, our new airport manager, as saying that Ross Field could lose $40,000 a year in revenue if the airport fuel concession is turned over to a private operator. Quite frankly I'm amazed that there is that much revenue produced, since everyone within 50 miles of here knows about the "rip-off" price being charged. (Ten cents more than anywhere else.)

Our airport has the dubious distinction of being one of only two airports in Michigan still following this restrictive practice of not allowing free enterprise. Because of this and other problems well known to all aircraft owners and pilots, six fixed base operations have come and gone (under) here in Benton Harbor in six years. Currently there is no full-service agency on the field. If a public aviation operator is to survive, he must be able to get his fuel at wholesale bulk rate. And the revenue from fuel sales is normally what makes the difference between survival and failure in the business.

Air Freight, Air Ambulance, Charter Flights, etc. are now only being obtained by calling Stockert Flying Service in South Bend. Local citizens, businessmen, and pilots have to take their business out of town. The only repair station close to it, Andrews University, (They have full service, and most of the local pilots keep their planes down there now where they have good hangers, cheap gas, and licensed mechanics when needed.)

When I started flying in 1967 our airport was always bustling with traffic. Now it is almost a ghost airport like Chicago Midway (only on a smaller scale.) Is it to slowly die like the city? The airport board had better wise up pretty quick. Our city is losing more than fuel revenue. It is losing its life, and air transportation is a vital part of its support, and I don't just mean North Central, & Whirlpool. I mean public flying. Small one-man businesses use a small airplane to find new markets. Saluto foods had a Beecheruf Bonanza a few years ago, and they covered half the country in that little plane and built up a fabulous business.

The small business man needs mobility, and efficiency. The airport board has only a few small planes on the field now. They should make an effort to make them welcome before everyone moves away. Mr. Banyon, how much industry come to this town by bus?

A big power shovel this afternoon began biting into the hill on Michigan street, Benton Harbor, on the site of the new twin city Y.M.C.A. The beginning of the actual ground breaking for the $300,000 structure, funds for which were raised by public subscription last fall, was watched by Y.M.C.A. officials and others interested in the project. Last fall when the 'Y' fund was completed those who participated in the campaign marched to the building site and Ben Wells with a shovel turned over a few spadefuls of earth to signalize the victory. Today there was a less formal ceremony but a more meaningful one. It meant the beginning of building operations.

Beginning Monday morning the rural carriers out of Benton Harbor will carry The Evening News and the Palladium to subscribers on the route. On the first of the month Benton Harbor Postmaster Huntington ruled that these papers could not be carried unless a one cent stamp was attached to each. Representatives of the two local papers attended the meeting of the state press at Lansing yesterday and learned that all over the state the local duties were carried by the rural routes at given rates. A final ruling was given that the duties could not be barred. Postmaster Huntington was informed of the ruling this morning and he issued orders for the rural carriers to resume carrying the local duties next week.

Dr. P.E. Witherspoon has sold his interest in the Columbian cigar company to W.H. Harper, the senior member of the Benton Harbor firm. The business of the company is in a flourishing condition.

Tyranny Of Juvenile Hoods

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Buried somewhere in the records of the millions of crimes that have already been committed in America this Bicentennial year, there is a statistic representing the Robertson Bennett family of Fort Collins, Colo. There is a case number, an account of the crime and an assessment of property lost but there is nothing to indicate the spiritual damage done. In this case, as in so many others that will occur this annum, the brutalization of the emotions of the victims is the real crime.

The incident in question here was savage enough. A month ago a vandal broke into the Bennett home and systematically, room-by-room, destroyed not only things but dreams and memories. Furniture was turned over, dresser drawers were emptied, clothes, books and papers were thrown on the floor.

Not satisfied with merely upsetting order, the vandal went totally berserk and killed a small dog, wrapping the body in bloody sheets. Antiques were ruined, memorabilia turned to ash. In the end there was an estimated $40,000 in losses.

On seeing the results of the vandalism for the first time, Mrs. Bennett collapsed. Indeed, on capturing the culprit, police told the Bennetts the person was severely unstable, confessing that he burned the home "because that's the way the Indians did it," and said that he hadn't wanted to kill all the dogs, just two of them, but the third had to die because it wouldn't be fair to the first and second.

Yet that was about all the police would say of the suspect. The Bennetts were told he had vandalized before, probably numerous times, perhaps committing other crimes as well, but because of his age — 17 — his identity could not be divulged. Colorado state law forbids the release of any information concerning suspects under 18. The boy's name will never be printed in the newspapers because of the same law. In fact, the Bennetts are not even sure they will be able to find out the determination of his court case.

And so the Bennetts are left to blindly grope for answers to their frustrations. They have been told the boy is free until his trial and they are worried he might return. They are concerned that without energetic (their own) prosecution of the case, the boy will be let go again to rob and despoil the property and values of somebody else.

America has become a nation where people under the age of 18 commit nearly half of all the known serious crimes, yet juvenile justice and delinquency prevention starve for meaningful concern except by the increasingly numerous victims.

Publicize them? Lock them away? It has done no good in the past. And yet neither has the Father Flanagan philosophy that a kid is not responsible for his sins. I confess I haven't the answer for the Bennetts or the problem, except to submit that the nation must find itself again, in order for its children to do the same. The alternative is readily apparent — it is where we are heading at present.

Hubert Plays Waiting Game

WASHINGTON (KFS) — James Eastland, one of the most conservative Democrats in the U.S. Senate, recently introduced Sen. Hubert Humphrey at a dinner in Mississippi with the prediction that, "Humphrey will get the call to lead the party this fall." And the room erupted with thunderous applause.

That sort of thing has been happening a lot to Humphrey all winter, but it was something special in the Deep South, where he used to be suspected of wearing horns. "I couldn't believe the difference in their attitude toward me," Humphrey mused afterward.

Liberals on the other end of the Democratic spectrum have a different attitude toward him, too. Since Sen. Henry Jackson's victory in Massachusetts, party officials and activists from all over the country have been urging Humphrey to change his mind about staying out of the primaries and become an active candidate.

Humphrey concedes that all the pressure on him to run is "tempting." But he is firm in his decision not to enter any of the primaries. If no Democrat emerges after the final primaries on June 8 with a commanding lead, Humphrey may campaign during the month before the nominating convention for the support of delegates who are uncommitted or supporting "favorite son" candidates.

A decision to become a candidate at that late date would depend on two factors, Humphrey said. His ratings in the popularity polls must have remained as high as they currently are, and no other Democrat had demonstrated he could win enough support for the nomination.

Humphrey's resistance to entering the presidential contest is based on pragmatism, not any lack of desire for the job he has sought off and on since 1960. It is too late now, he believes, to mount the necessary organization to do well.

He is surprised that his popularity has remained steady in the face of all the media attention given the Democrats running in the primaries. A few months ago he predicted to me that he would fade in the public opinion polls once the primaries began producing winners. That has not yet happened.

He pointed out that the new proportional representation system means no single candidate is likely to win all the delegates of any one state, as was possible in past elections. Gov. George Wallace will hold a sizable chunk of delegates away from the other candidates. Favorite son candidacies in Illinois, Texas and perhaps California will siphon away still more delegates. Sen. Frank Church is planning what is essentially a regional campaign, hoping to collect votes in the Western states.

Thus, it might be possible that the delegates would be so divided a popular latecomer could sweep the convention. But that depends, in large part, on Sen. Henry Jackson. If Jackson's well-financed and organized campaign carries him on to victory in New York and Pennsylvania, he may well be unstoppable.

In the meantime, Humphrey can only wait.

St. Patrick's Day Time-Honored In U.S.

March 17, the legendary date of St. Patrick's death in the fifth century, long has been celebrated in honor of Ireland's patron saint. This is the day every year that an Irishman's chest expansion is always a bit larger and when he carries his head a bit higher than is his wont.

America has celebrated St. Patrick's Day from the early days of its history. Records show that a Boston gathering honored the occasion in 1737. On March 17, 1780, Gen. George Washington, at camp in Morristown, N.J., cited the significance of the date in his orders of the day.

In 1870, two decades after the great potato blight in Ireland had seen 1.5 million persons leave the Irish Isles, the Irish were the largest single group of foreign-born in America. In 1880 the German-born ranked first and by 1950 the U.S. census showed only 500,000 natives of Ireland living in the U.S. — only 5 per cent of all foreign-born residents.

So the great influx is over. But the contribution to America of the sons and daughters of Ireland has been unique and pervasive.

Lawyers Man The Lansing Ramparts

Until fairly recent times, lawyers and farmers constituted the occupationally oriented majority in the Michigan legislature. Persons from a small business background made up the other bloc of consequence.

A like pattern prevailed in Congress.

The mix has changed substantially from that historical benchmark, noticeably so at Lansing and to a lesser degree at Washington.

There are not as many farmers as there used to be and organized labor now enjoys the occupational plurality in the high density industrial states.

Last year Carl Smith, Jr., a Bay City attorney, circularized Michigan's 8,000 or so lawyers with a warning it is no coincidence that the lawyer population in the Michigan legislature has shrunk to 10 per cent and a host of statutes and bills to reduce the need for an attorney's services in many areas is rising.

From this emerged an organization he called LAWPAAC, the Lawyers Political Action Committee.

A few days ago the Berrien county chapter chairman sent out a flyer urging a $15 enrollment fee be forwarded by return mail to fight what LAWPAAC styles the anti-lawyers forces in the Michigan and national legislatures.

The flyer described six danger areas, workmen's compensation, domestic relations, public defender, probate and estates, negligence, and conveyancing, as actual and potential battlegrounds.

LAWPAAC's intention is to fire away at any candidate for Lansing or Washington who does not publicly proclaim an intention to preserve those domains for the attorneys.

A closer look at the situation indicates a case of overreaction.

The beef on workmen's compensation is a recent Michigan law reducing the plaintiff's maximum fee of 25 per cent of an award to around 15 per cent. Since representing a claimant in a Michigan compensation case is the same as shooting fish in a barrel, this is a change for the better, at least the injured claimant or his estate benefits more from the mishap.

The outcry in domestic relations and negligence refers to no-fault divorce and no-fault automobile actions. Though easier today to dump a spouse, the arguments on child custody and property settlements have increased. No-fault in the automobile field has cleared to some extent the underbrush in small claims, but complicated settling the after effect problems once somebody is paid for a dented fender. No-fault has created more litigation than ever in divorce and automobile negligence; and this means more lawyering rather than less.

Another complaint on no-fault divorce is the same directed to probate and estates. This is the do-it-yourself approach. Though loudly touted by its exponents as the way to obtain results quicker and cheaper than hiring a lawyer, it has not worked out as claimed for it; and as is the case of a layman trying to muddle through a problem for which he has no training, the outcome causes more mistakes and eventually more business for the lawyers than if he had never looked at a do-it-yourself kit.

The argument on conveyancing is not caused by legislative action but by the Michigan Supreme Court. A few years ago the court ruled that a real estate agent could make out a deed, land contract or mortgage without being guilty of practicing law without a license, but it occurs to us LAWPAAC might better advise its judicial brethren to take another look at the decision.

The public defender complaint is more complicated. By court ruling everywhere, it is an obligation of the public treasury to provide counsel for the indigent defendant; and in most states, including Michigan, it is a lawyer's duty to accept a court appointment for that purpose.

Because most of them are not particularly skilled in criminal practice as is F. Lee Bailey, to cite one shining example, and because the court ordered defense fees run to the low side, the public defender as a contracted practitioner has come into vogue.

There is a proposal to allow the indigent defendant to request a public defender of his choosing rather than by the court's automatic referral to the contracted defense counsel.

We agree with LAWPAAC this plan would develop into another sample of lofty theory turning out some unwanted results.

Unless, however, the batting average improves beyond one in six trips to the plate, LAWPAAC might better put its energies to taking the kinks out of the legal system so as to win it greater public acclaim than it now enjoys.

'Rescind Your Racist Remarks,' Fellow Dentist Asks Dr. Taylor

Editor,

I must take violent exception to some of the statements made by Dr. Harzel Taylor in your Headline story concerning the phasing out of the Dental Clinic.

I'm sure that the Lakeland Valley Dental Society will respond to some of the charges and inaccuracies. However, I would like to address myself to one.

To say, "Let's face it — they do not want those little black children in their offices. That's why they're all moving to St. Joseph," is a racist remark and Dr. Taylor should not lower himself to this kind of attack.

I have been present at all of the meetings between Dr. Taylor and the Dental Society, the truth of the matter is that Dr. Taylor NEVER said this to the Dental Society.

As a matter of fact, Dr. Taylor told the Dental Society that if we thought that there was no need for the Clinic he would close down.

Personally, I moved from Benton Harbor a year and a half ago for several reasons. One of the reasons, however, was NOT to avoid having black children come to my office. The reasons I moved were because my lease was not renewed, there were no suitable offices to rent, and I did not feel it was in my best interest to invest money in building a building in an area where property values are plummeting.

Presently, we have many black children and adults, some Medicaid, some not, in our practice. We're glad to have them as patients.

Most of the dentists in the Twin Cities area participate in the Medicaid program and none of them take "white only" Medicaid patients.

Dr. Taylor, please, please, rescind your racist remarks.

CALLS AIRPORT FUEL PRICES 'RIP-OFF'

Editor,

A recent report in your newspaper quoted Ron Momany, our new airport manager, as saying that Ross Field could lose $40,000 a year in revenue if the airport fuel concession is turned over to a private operator. Quite frankly I'm amazed that there is that much revenue produced, since everyone within 50 miles of here knows about the "rip-off" price being charged. (ten cents more than anywhere else.)

Our airport has the dubious distinction of being one of only two airports in Michigan still following this restrictive practice of not allowing free enterprise. Because of this and other problems well known to all aircraft owners and pilots, six fixed base operations have come and gone (under) here in Benton Harbor in six years. Currently there is no full-service agency on the field. If a public aviation operator is to survive, he must be able to get his fuel at wholesale bulk rate. And the revenue from fuel sales is normally what makes the difference between survival and failure in the business.

Air Freight, Air Ambulance, Charter Flights, etc. are now only being obtained by calling Stockert Flying Service in South Bend. Local citizens, businessmen, and pilots have to take

BH OKs Schools Tax Renewal, Rejects Hike

By JIM SHANAHAN
City Editor

Benton Harbor school district voters approved renewal of 7.5 mills in operating taxes, but rejected a 1-mill building maintenance tax in a special election Tuesday. The millage renewal carried 1,699 to 1,281, and the building maintenance levy that would have meant a tax increase was beaten, 1,818 to 1,358 in unofficial returns.

The 1-mill tax for building repairs ran much closer than last June when a 3-mill levy for building maintenance was beaten nearly 2 to 1 in the regular school election when there were board candidates on the ballot. And, surprisingly, the turnout of voters was bigger yesterday when 15 per cent of the district's 20,000 voters went to the polls compared to last June when there was about an 11 per cent turnout.

Supt. Richard Helser said he was grateful for passage of the operating millage and increased interest of the voters. But loss of the maintenance tax "will almost certainly mean that I will recommend to the board that we place the maintenance questions before the community again in June." The 7.5 mills renewal of operating taxes carried in 22 of the district's 27 precincts. The 1-mill maintenance tax carried in only 10 precincts.

Biggest single backer of the taxes was heavy-voting Fairplain

West where the renewal passed 220 to 94 and the increase 176 to 135. The renewal carried in all 10 Benton Harbor city precincts and the maintenance tax in six precincts. The inner city voter turnout was noticeably larger than last June.

Sodus, which is in litigation to get out of the district, walloped the proposals by margins of 3 to 1 and 5 to 1. Outlying Millburg also went against the taxes by similar margins. Renewal of the 7.5 mills is for one year and keeps the operating tax rate at essentially the same as 1975 — 21.726 mills. The maintenance tax would have run for five years and raised about $200,000 annually.

The campaign was conducted by Citizens Who Care, Helser said.

"Without their help, I am certain that the results would not be as positive as they are," he added. "We are thankful for the cooperation of our employees who worked hard in explaining complicated school issues — both financial and educational — to our citizens."

Helser said current finances are extremely tight because of cuts in state aid and next year's outlook is uncertain. "If the financial picture for the state changes dramatically in a negative way, we will again have to consider measures to bring our budget in line.

At some future point, this will mean cuts in teachers and services to kids."

Catholic School Board Votes Big Tuition Hike

By DICK DERRICK
Staff Writer

Lake Michigan Catholic school board last night voted 7 to 1 to raise tuition rates from 21 to 77 per cent.

The board voted to raise tuition despite almost solid opposition by approximately 40 parents. The meeting was held in the elementary school cafeteria in Benton Harbor.

Parents predicted the increase in tuition would cut deeply into enrollment and in effect nullify the tuition increase. Raymond Jordan, executive director of the Catholic school system, said a 10 per cent loss was being expected.

Rates for families who are members of Catholic parishes will be $480 for one high school student, up from $395 and $400 for one elementary student, up from $280.

The sharpest increases are for the second child in either elementary or high school. Tuition for two high school students this year is $760 and next year it will be $900. Tuition for two elementary students is $450 and will be $580 under the new schedule.

Tuition for one elementary pupil and one high school pupil costs $675 this year and will go to $880 next year. The maximum family rate goes from $700 to $960.

Rates for families not registered at any of the three Catholic parishes in the Twin Cities were increased from $840 to $900 for high school students and from $580 to $750 for elementary pupils. Maximum family plan for unregistered families will be $1,800. There was no maximum previously. Approximately 17 per cent of the enrollment is non-Catholic students.

The board has presented three proposals to parents at a series of meetings the past month.

The proposal approved last night called for the highest tuition increases, a total of $74,000, and cuts in personnel totaling $24,000.

Two other proposals were for lesser tuition increases and bigger cuts in personnel.

Board member James O'Malley prefaced his motion for the highest increase in tuition, saying he wanted the best possible program for the school.

After listening to the parents for an hour and a half, the board voted to adopt the higher tuition schedule. President Robert Gentry ruled out a plea by a group of parents for a questionnaire to be sent home to determine what range tuition they would be willing to pay. Gentry asked if parents would vote with their hearts or their pocket-books?

Gentry said the tuition increases reflect an attempt to bring elementary tuition charges closer to those of the high school.

Voting "in" to raise the tuition was Rev. Leo Taubitz, pastor of St. Bernard's parish, Fairplain. The seven yes votes were cast by Gentry, Frank Hansen, Mrs. Anne Takacs, Mrs. Eileen Gubensky, O'Malley, Jack Leits and William Bauman.

There are 435 in the elementary school and 412 in the high school.

Father Taubitz said he felt some of the money now used for extra-curricular activities, could go to the school. He specifically named the athletic and band programs. He said he recognized these programs are self-supporting.

GRAND OPENING IN VILLAGE SQUARE: Hal's King and Queen Apparel Shoppe will have its grand opening in the Village Square, Stevensville, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Hal's Clothiers was founded in Benton Harbor in 1936 and moved to Fairplain Plaza in 1974. Village Square store specializes in fitting the "larger woman and tall and larger men." Fairplain Plaza store will continue to feature men's wear, owner Myron Adelberg said.

St. Joe Township Planners Agree To Rezoning Hearing

The St. Joseph township planning commission last night agreed to hold a public hearing on a request to rezone a small parcel of property near the corner of Trail lane and Lausman drive from residential to commercial.

Flu Blamed For Visitor Ban At Claremont

Claremont nursing home has announced that no visitors at all will be allowed until further notice because of the current influenza outbreak in the Twin Cities area.

Announcement of the temporary policy was made by Margaret Abrams, director of the nursing home at 1385 East Empire avenue, Benton township.

The request was made by Ted Lausman of 2630 Trail lane, who said he wanted the 240 by 300 foot tract rezoned to match zoning of approximately three acres of land he owns bordering the parcel. Lausman said he has no current plans for the property, but said he hopes to sell it later for commercial development. No date was set for the public hearing on the request.

In other business, the commission re-elected officers for another two-year term. Re-elected were Ernst Knauf, chairman; Charles Garlanger, vice chairman, and Mrs. June Rottler, secretary.

The planning commission gave informal approval to a preliminary map from the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) detailing areas that are prone to flooding.

Under federal guidelines, designation as a flood-prone area allows residents living in the area to be eligible for low-cost federal flood insurance. Lending institutions by federal decree are restricted from lending for new construction in the designated areas.

Chairman Knauf said the two most hazardous areas in the township affected by the designation would be houses along the St. Joseph river at the north end of Riverbend drive and houses just north of the Napier avenue bridge on Moccasin and Blackhawk drives.

Benton Makes Temporary Contract With Rampart

The Benton township board of trustees last night approved a contract with Rampart ambulance service, to run for 30 days at a cost of $1,255.

Township and Benton Harbor officials, meanwhile, are expected to work toward a permanent contract with Rampart, reported township Clerk Catheryn Sirk. Representing the township will be a committee of Supervisor Martin J. Lane, Police Chief Joe Sieber, Trustee Margaret Criswell, and Mrs. Sirk.

The Benton Harbor city commission so far has not taken any formal action on the matter.

Both Benton township and Benton Harbor earlier withdrew from the Community Emergency Service Corp., which has hired Action ambulance to cover St. Joseph city and townships of St. Joseph, Lincoln, Royalton, and Sodus.

After withdrawing, Benton trustees voted to put money originally earmarked for Action into an interest-drawing savings account for possible future use for ambulance service. The $2,255 outlay for Rampart includes $2,080 for operation, and $175 for two-way radio equipment.

The board indicated that free trash pickups to homes may end after May 31, when Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) employees are expected to be terminated because of no more funding.

The board agreed, meanwhile, to check on how much more the service would cost, if run by township-paid employees. Also to be checked is how much revenue could be obtained by charging home owners for pickups.

The trash service currently has eight employees—four permanent township employees and four paid through federal CETA funds. Two trucks are owned.

The policy of not charging homeowners fees began in late 1974. The fee before that was $1.50 per month. Pickups at commercial establishments still entail a fee of $17 per week.

Clerk Sirk announced that trash bags no longer will be available at the township office, after the current supply is sold. She said after the meeting that the township pays $2.08 per 20 bags and sells them at the same rate, adding that the bags are cheaper in supermarkets.

In other matters, the board agreed that the township will have only one constable, after the November general election. There currently are two constables, Andrew Davis and Clayton Wallace. If both, or more, seek the post, the highest vote-getter would win. The township by law can reduce the number of constables, it was reported.

The township annual meeting was scheduled for 1 p.m. Saturday, April 3, in the township hall. The Berrien county road commission meeting on township road improvements will be at 9 a.m. Tuesday, March 23, and the annual financial settlement day meeting will be at 1 p.m., also on March 23.

Five residents of the Crystal-Wood avenue intersection area asked for a 30-mile an hour speed limit and complained of dust, speeders and dump traffic enroute to the landfill. The board indicated the signs would be posted soon.

The board also: —Adopted a resolution in appreciation of work done by E.J. Weisbruch, Ross field airport manager who retired recently after more than 22 years of service.

—Appointed Arnold Leonard to a Community Development committee which approves loans and grants.

—Followed a township planning commission recommendation by granting a special use permit in August. Paul wreckers, which seeks to build a 60 by 100-foot structure on its property, 2670 Territorial road. Junk vehicles will be dismantled inside the building.

—Approved a contribution of $800 to Berrien metro narcotics squad.

—Approved tag day sales for American Legion Post 353 auxiliary, for May 21, and for St. Mark Baptist church, May 22.

Donate $250

The Benton Harbor chapter of Squaws, Inc., a service organization, has donated $250 toward the purchase of a copy machine to be used in the school age mothers program. The equipment will be used for educational purposes, reported Roderick C. Halsted, acting assistant superintendent for secondary education. The gift has been acknowledged by the board of education.

Blood Pressure Tests On Friday For Residents Of Harbor Towers

Benton Harbor Mercy hospital's hypertension clinic is sponsoring high blood pressure tests Friday for residents of Harbor Towers in Benton Harbor, according to Dr. James Greene, III, head of the clinic.

Nurses from the clinic will be available at the senior citizens apartment complex to give the tests, according to Dr. Greene.

He said the tests for high blood pressure, or hypertension, are important in detecting the disease which has no symptoms but causes extensive damage to vital organs. He said the damage results in strokes, heart or kidney failure.

Dr. Greene estimated that there are 20,000 people in the Berrien, Cass and Van Buren counties who have high blood pressure and said at least half are not aware they have the disease. Once detected, high blood pressure can be controlled with drugs, Dr. Greene said, thus forestalling damage to blood vessels and vital organs.

Mercy's hypertension clinic is also planning future high blood pressure screenings in the area for service organizations, businesses and industries, according to Dr. Greene. Anyone interested in taking the tests can obtain information from the hypertension clinic at Mercy hospital, Dr. Greene said.

BH OKs Schools Tax Renewal, Rejects Hike

City Editor

Benton Harbor school district voters approved renewal of 7.5 mills in operating taxes, but rejected a 1-mill building maintenance tax in a special election Tuesday. The millage renewal carried 1,699 to 1,281, and the building maintenance levy that would have meant a tax increase was beaten, 1,618 to 1,358 in unofficial returns.

The 1-mill tax for building repairs ran much closer than last June when a 3-mill levy for building maintenance was beaten nearly 2 to 1 in the regular school election when there were board candidates on the ballot. And, surprisingly, the turnout of voters was bigger yesterday when 15 per cent of the district's 20,000 voters went to the polls compared to last June when there was about an 11 per cent turnout.

Supt. Richard Helser said he was grateful for passage of the operating millage and increased interest of the voters. But loss of the maintenance tax "will almost certainly mean that I will recommend to the board that we place the maintenance questions before the community again in June." The 7.5 mills renewal of operating taxes carried in 22 of the district's 27 precincts. The 1-mill maintenance tax carried in only 10 precincts.

Biggest single backer of the taxes was heavy-voting Fairplain

West where the renewal passed 220 to 94 and the increase 176 to 135. The renewal carried in all 10 Benton Harbor city precincts and the maintenance tax in six precincts. The inner city voter turnout was noticeably larger than last June.

Sodus, which is in litigation to get out of the district, walloped the proposals by margins of 3 to 1 and 5 to 1. Outlying Millburg also went against the taxes by similar margins. Renewal of the 7.5 mills is for one year and keeps the operating tax rate at essentially the same as 1975 — 29.726 mills. The maintenance tax would have run for five years and raised about $200,000 annually.

The campaign was conducted by Citizens Who Care. Helser said:

"Without their help, I am certain that the results would not be as positive as they are," he added. "We are thankful for the cooperation of our employees who worked hard in explaining complicated school issues — both financial and educational — to our citizens."

Helser said current finances are extremely tight because of cuts in state aid and next year's outlook is uncertain. "If the financial picture for the state changes dramatically in a negative way, we will again have to consider measures to bring our budget in line."

At some future point, this will mean cuts in teachers and services to kids.

Catholic School Board Votes Big Tuition Hike

By DICK DERRICK
Staff Writer

Lake Michigan Catholic school board last night voted 7 to 1 to raise tuition rates from 21 to 77 per cent.

The board voted to raise tuition despite almost solid opposition by approximately 40 parents. The meeting was held in the elementary school cafeteria in Benton Harbor.

Parents predicted the increase in tuition would cut deeply into enrollment and in effect nullify the tuition increase.

Raymond Jordan, executive director of the Catholic school system, said a 10 per cent loss was being expected.

Rates for families who are members of Catholic parishes will be $480 for one high school student, up from $395 and $400 for one elementary student, up from $280.

The sharpest increases are for the second child in either elementary or high school. Tuition for two high school students this year is $790 and next year it will be $960. Tuition for two elementary students is $450 and will be $800 under the new schedule.

Tuition for one elementary pupil and one high school pupil costs $675 this year and will go to $880 next year. The maximum family rate goes from $760 to $960.

Rates for families not registered at any of the three Catholic parishes in the Twin Cities were increased from $840 to $900 for high school students and from $580 to $750 for elementary pupils. Maximum family plan for unregistered families will be $1,800. There was no maximum previously. Approximately 17 per cent of the enrollment is non-Catholic students.

The board has presented three proposals to parents at a series of meetings the past month.

The proposal approved last night called for the highest tuition increases, a total of $74,000, and cuts in personnel totaling $24,000.

Two other proposals were for lesser tuition increases and bigger cuts in personnel.

Board member James O'Malley prefaced his motion for the highest increase in tuition, saying he wanted the best possible program for the school.

After listening to the parents for an hour and a half, the board voted to adopt the higher tuition schedule. President Robert Gentry ruled out a plea by a group of parents for a questionnaire to be sent home to determine what range tuition they would be willing to pay. Gentry asked if parents would vote with their hearts or their pocket-books?

Gentry said the tuition increases reflect an attempt to bring elementary tuition charges closer to those of the high school.

Voting "no" to raise the tuition was Rev. Leo Taubitz, pastor of St. Bernard's parish, Fairplain. The seven yes votes were cast by Gentry, Frank Hansen, Mrs. Anne Takacs, Mrs. Eileen Globensky, O'Malley, Jack Lents and William Bauman.

There are 435 in the elementary school and 412 in the high school.

Father Taubitz said he felt some of the money now used for extra-curricular activities, could go to the school. He specifically named the athletic and band programs. He said he recognized these programs are self-supporting.

SERVICE STATION DAMAGED: Adrian Downs, looking unperturbed, views damage caused when pickup backed through front window of his Standard Service station at Millburg Tuesday. State police of Benton Harbor post arrested Harold W. Brown, 47, of 2345 Irving drive, Benton Heights, on charge of driving under influence of intoxicants after 3 p.m. crash. Downs told troopers he was standing by cash register when station was struck and he was pushed back, but was unhurt. Troopers said pickup was being started with jumper cables when it suddenly started moving in reverse and the driver fell out onto pavement prior to impact with station. Driver was unhurt. The Benton township board of trustees last night approved a contract with Rampart ambulance service, to run for 30 days at a cost of $2,255.

Always uncork champagne with great care — the cork is not meant to explode in the air with the wine spilling out. To uncork champagne, remove the wire netting on the cork, tilt the bottle slightly, hold the cork firmly with one hand and turn the bottle, not the cork, with the other. If you do this properly, you allow the gas to escape properly and no explosion occurs. Wipe the rim of the bottle with a napkin, and pour a little champagne into each glass, before filling all the glasses two-thirds full.

A bottle of champagne or wine chosen at RITTER'S LIQUOR LOCKER, 3872 Red Arrow Hwy., 428-4921 can highlight a meal and add a touch of gaiety and conviviality to the dining table. We will be happy to suggest a wine to complement your meal. We also feature nationally known brands of whiskeys, brandies, cordials and beer. Ample free parking. Always uncork champagne with great care — the cork is not meant to explode in the air with the wine spilling out. To uncork champagne, remove the wire netting on the cork, tilt the bottle slightly, hold the cork firmly with one hand and turn the bottle, not the cork, with the other. If you do this properly, you allow the gas to escape properly and no explosion occurs. Wipe the rim of the bottle with a napkin, and pour a little champagne into each glass, before filling all the glasses two-thirds full.

A bottle of champagne or wine chosen at RITTER'S LIQUOR LOCKER, 3872 Red Arrow Hwy., 429-4921 can highlight a meal and add a touch of gaiety and conviviality to the dining table. We will be happy to suggest a wine to complement your meal. We also feature nationally known brands of whiskeys, brandies, cordials and beer. Ample free parking. Open: Mon.-Sat. 10am-11pm, Sun. noon-9pm.

WINE WISDOM:

A champagne glass is held correctly if held by the base.

Clean Oven With Ammonia

Oven cleaning is simplified if a half cup of ammonia is placed in the oven with the door closed for several hours.

This loosens the soil so that most stains can be wiped up with a sudsy sponge.

Lent Is Still Special Time To Serve Fish

Demand For Seafood Grows

It is still customary to "think fish" during Lent even though dietary practices have been relaxed.

In fact, experience has shown that the demand for fish these days is pretty steady throughout the year. Retailers now gear up for fish sales two or three days a week in addition to the traditional Friday rush. But for many, Lent is still a special time to serve fish.

Today's housewife has at her beck and call a large variety of fresh fish and shellfish from New England waters so that every meal can be a new eating adventure. There are as many ways to prepare seafood as there are species, and as an added bonus, fish is nutritious and low in calories — a fine way to have a feast and cater to your family's health at the same time.

Especially tempting is the ultra-fresh seafood rushed from ocean to table by New England fishermen. Few foods can compare with the delicate flavor and texture of New England cod, flounder or pollock fresh out of the water. These fish are usually running good this time of year so you can count on their being fresh. Look for some of the lesser known Atlantic species, too — ocean perch, whiting, mussels, hake, cusk, ocean pout — all delicious and most of them priced right.

These are just a sampling of the many species of New England seafoods which are available at Lent and all year round. Try them simply broiled or baked or, for a change, with a variety of sauces.

Here is a fish recipe and some recipes for savory sauces guaranteed to perk up Lenten menus.

FLOUNDER FILLETS, NEW ENGLAND STYLE

One-half cup water
One-half cup tomato juice
One-half cup butter or margarine
One package (eight ounces) herb-seasoned stuffing mix
One cup chopped fresh raw hard-shell clams (quahogs)
Eight fresh flounder fillets
Soft butter or margarine
Combine water and tomato juice; add one-half cup butter; heat until butter is melted. Add stuffing mix and clams with their juice; mix well. Spread stuffing on four fillets; top with remaining fillets; tie securely with white string. Place in shallow baking dish. Add just enough hot water to barely cover bottom of dish. Brush tops of stuffed fillets with soft butter or margarine. Bake at 400 degrees for 20 minutes or until fish flakes readily with a fork. Serve with Cucumber, Dill and Caper Sauce. Makes eight servings.

SAUCES

Mushroom-Almond Sauce: Combine one can (ten and one-half ounces) condensed cream of mushroom soup, one-half cup cooked peas and one-fourth cup slivered toasted almonds. Heat well. Makes about two and one-half cups.

Lemon-Butter Sauce: Combine and mix well one-fourth cup melted butter or margarine, two tablespoons lemon juice, one teaspoon minced onion and a dash Tabasco.

Cucumber, Dill and Caper Sauce: Cook one cup diced, seeded cucumber in one-half cup water until tender and clear. Drain, measure cooking water; add enough water to make one cup. Melt two tablespoons butter or margarine; blend in two tablespoons flour.

Add the cooking water mixture; stir until smooth and thickened. Add two tablespoons lemon juice, one teaspoon each grated lemon peel and grated onion, one-half teaspoon salt, few drops pepper, one tablespoon each fresh chopped dill and capers and the cooked cucumbers. Heat to serving temperature. Makes about two cups.

For many people concerned with nutrition and good health, and especially for the cholesterol-conscious, fish plays an important role in the diet because fish is a great source of protein and it is lower in calories, cholesterol and saturated fat than red meat.

Unfortunately many homemakers don't consider fish when planning their weekly menus. Good fresh fish is hard to find in some areas and frozen fillets lack convenience for today's woman-on-the-go.

Busy homemakers need to have several cupboard recipes that they can rely on when time gets short to help put a nutritious and satisfying meal on the table.

This back-to-basics salmon loaf captures the best of both worlds. It is high in protein, low in fat, like most seafood and canned salmon makes it a convenient dish for hectic days. Taking just minutes to prepare and 40 minutes to bake, you can have dinner on the table in less than one hour.

SALMON LOAF SUPREME

Two cans (seven and three-fourths each) salmon, drained
Two tablespoons chopped onion
One tablespoon corn oil margarine
Two tablespoons chopped parsley
One-fourth cup skim milk
One-half cup frozen cholesterol-free egg substitute
One and one-half cups fresh bread crumbs
One-fourth teaspoon salt
One-eighth teaspoon pepper
Cream Sauce (recipe below)
Flake salmon and remove bones. Set aside.
Saute onion in margarine until tender, about two minutes. Remove from heat. Add flaked salmon, parsley, milk, frozen egg substitute, bread crumbs, salt and pepper. Mix thoroughly. Place in a greased shallow one and one-half quart baking pan. Shape mixture into a nine by four by two-inch loaf.
Bake at 350 degrees for 40 minutes, or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Serve with Cream Sauce. Makes six servings.

Cream Sauce: In saucepan saute two tablespoons chopped onion in two tablespoons corn oil margarine until tender. Blend in two tablespoons flour, one-half teaspoon salt and one-half teaspoon dry mustard. Gradually stir in one and one-fourth cups skim milk. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil.

The rising cost of food doesn't have to mean eliminating the expensive items from your menus. But a bit of judicious planning will help. For instance, you want to have clams, but you know that serving them on the half shell is not the best way to spend your food dollar.

Don't despair. This recipe for Clam Pie is just full of good clam flavor and it makes six main-dish (or 12 hors d'oeuvres) servings from two cans of minced clams.

Rice is the ingredient that makes it all possible.

CLAM PIE

One cup sliced green onions with tops
Two tablespoons butter or margarine
Three tablespoons flour
One-half cup half and half (cream and milk)
Two cans (eight ounces each) minced clams (drain; reserve liquid)
One-half teaspoon each salt and Worcestershire sauce
One-fourth teaspoon each garlic powder and pepper
One cup grated Cheddar cheese

One tablespoon dry vermouth, optional

Two eggs, beaten

Rice Crust (recipe below)

Saute onions in butter until tender but not brown. Stir in flour and cook several minutes longer. Add cream and one-half cup clam liquid. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add seasonings, cheese and vermouth. Blend a little hot mixture into the eggs. Stir all into the clam sauce. Add clams. Turn into baked rice crust. Bake at 350 degrees for 15 minutes. To serve, cut in wedges. Makes six main dish servings or 12 hors d'oeuvres.

RICE CRUST

Three cups cooked rice
Two eggs, beaten
One-fourth cup chopped pimiento stuffed green olives
Combine rice, eggs and olives. Press firmly into a greased 10-inch pie pan, pressing just to top edge of pie plate. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes.

SHRIMP COMBO

One cup each chopped onions and celery
One-half cup chopped green pepper

One and one-half tablespoons butter or margarine

One can (ten and three-fourths ounces) condensed cream of mushroom soup

One-half cup chicken broth

Three cups cooked rice

One-fourth cup diced pimientos

One-half teaspoon salt

One-fourth teaspoon pepper

Eight to twelve ounces peeled and deveined cooked shrimp (cut in half lengthwise)

One cup grated Cheddar cheese

Saute onions, celery and green pepper in butter until tender crisp. Stir in soup and broth. Cook, stirring, until mixture is smooth. Add rice, pimientos, seasonings and shrimp. Turn into a greased shallow two-quart casserole. Sprinkle with cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for 15 minutes or until thoroughly heated. Makes six servings.

SEAFOOD SPECIAL

One can (ten and one-half ounces) condensed cream of onion soup

One-fourth cup hot chicken broth

One and one-half teaspoons salt
One-fourth teaspoon each garlic powder, pepper and thyme

One and one-half cups sliced celery

One-half cup chopped green pepper

Three cups cooked rice

Eight ounces peeled and deveined raw shrimp (cut lengthwise)

One can (six and one-half ounces) crab meat, drained

One-fourth cup chopped pimientos

One cup buttered soft bread crumbs

Blend together soup, broth and seasonings. Add remaining ingredients except bread crumbs. Turn into a greased shallow two-quart casserole. Bake, covered, at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Top with bread crumbs and bake uncovered, 15 minutes longer. Makes six servings.

SEAFOOD REUBENS

Four servings

Four fish fillets, fresh or frozen (one pound)

Butter or salad oil

One-half teaspoon fresh grated lemon peel

Juice of one lemon

Eight large slices rye or pumpernickel bread

Soft butter or margarine

One can (one pound) sauerkraut, drained, or two cups cole slaw, drained

Four slices Swiss cheese

Thousand Island Dressing

Eight lemon wedges

Eight pimiento-stuffed green olives

Saute fillets in small amount of butter and lemon peel just until fish flakes easily with a fork. Squeeze lemon juice over all. Spread one side of each bread slice with softened butter. To "build" each sandwich, spoon about one-half cup sauerkraut or cole slaw on one buttered bread slice. Add a slice of cheese, two tomato slices, warm fish fillet and a tablespoon of Thousand Island Dressing. Top with bread slice, buttered-side-down; garnish with lemon wedges and olives. Serve with additional dressing.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

There's Nothing Impossible!

Dear Ann Landers: My wife insists she knows some women who have beat up their husbands during a heated argument.

I can understand a woman emerging victorious in a tennis match or a golf game — or even being a better bowler or skier than her husband, but the thought that a man would marry a woman who could physically overpower him is utterly inconceivable to me. I don't believe it is possible. Do you? — Keystone L.

Dear K: Of course it's possible. At this very moment I'm sure somewhere in the world several wives are beating up their husbands.

Many women are in much

Call Aity.

Dear Ann Landers: Here's a problem I've never seen in your column. It is driving several families in our neighborhood crazy — especially mine.

There's this woman who lives down the block who insists on walking her dog all over our lawns at night. What the dog does is bad enough, but we could live with that. Our major complaint is that she walks very close to our windows. It is terribly upsetting to see a pair of eyes peering at you from the outside when you turn on the bathroom light.

I have written three notes to

this creepy character and several neighbors have written also. No response of any kind. A few people have even gone to her home and told her to cut it out. She has ignored their pleas. We phoned the police but they say they can't do anything unless they catch her and they are too busy to tail her. Any suggestions? — Sick Of Peeping Mary

Dear Sick Of P.M.: Any lawyer will tell you that Mary is trespassing on private property. Looking into windows is an additional offense. Both are clearly against the law. Phone an attorney and he will advise you.

New Look

Dear Ann Landers: I am 22 years old and have known for a long time that I should write to you, but I never had the nerve. The problem is a brown birthmark on my cheek that has battered me all my life. People are always asking me if I have dirt on my face. It's embarrassing in them and to me when I tell them, "No, it isn't dirt, it's a birthmark."

I once tried a skin bleach but it didn't help; in fact, it irritated my skin and caused a miserable rash. Do you know if surgery can remove this awful thing? Would a doctor have to graft skin from another part of my body? If so, I would be laid up for quite a while and I can't afford to lose that much time from work.

Please give me some advice, Ann. — Blenished

Dear Blenished: Bleaching is NOT the answer. For a temporary solution, there are excellent cover-up creams available at most drugstores and I hope you will buy one immediately.

A permanent solution is not a skin graft, but a sanding procedure called abrasive planing. It is done by skin specialists (under anesthesia). You'll be a mess for a couple of weeks, but when the scabbing disappears, you'll have a pinkish scar for a while (which can be covered by makeup), then gradually it should fade and your face will be perfectly normal.

What's the price? What's the O.K.? If you aren't sure, you need some help. It's available in the booklet: "Nucking and Potting — What Are the Limits?" Mail your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120, enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

You don't hear a lot about Senior Power, but it's there.

There are 20 million Americans older than 65 and they are easily the most discriminated-against minority of all.

That's why today, I'm giving equal time to grandmothers. While back, I did a column on what grandchildren could expect from grandparents. With an assist from a sharp grandmother in Rye, New York, here's some demands from grandparents.

1. Do not feel free to join me in the bathroom or run screaming to your mother when I throw you out. She may feel you are ready to be introduced to the mysteries of the human anatomy, but I don't.

2. When we're at the table and I am trying to get you to eat your din din, please don't call everyone's attention to the fact that I am talking to you with my mouth full.

3. Please, under no circumstances, fool around with the wires under my wheelchair.

4. When I am babysitting and have an important long-distance call, don't run out of the front door screaming and leaving me locked in. Granted you must have freedom, but I also have a nerve problem.

5. Please don't tear up my phone book just to keep busy while I am talking to a door-to-door salesman.

6. Please do not fill up the bathtub with water and float my hairbrush and comb in a solution of hair rinse perfume, bath oil, and bath powder. That makes me cry throughout an entire evening.

7. Do not become hysterical when the toilet flushes blue. It is not something you have done.

8. Do not play football with my best pillow near my antique hurricane lamp.

9. Unless you are a prodigy and a soloist with the Cleveland symphony at the age of 4, do not sit down at my piano with sticky fingers.

10. When my legs are crossed and you jump on my foot for a "ride," do not be surprised if my leg falls off.

11. Try to understand I do not have unlimited toys around. Although the dog has movable parts, most of them cannot be replaced.

12. I'd like very much to respond to your pleas of "carry me, Grandma" but frankly you took the words out of MY mouth.

Now Grandma, if your grievance committee was only old enough to read this, you'd have it made.

Erma Bombeck

Senior Power

Dr. Lester Coleman

Can a doctor, simply by listening to the chest with a stethoscope, tell if a heart murmur is present and how serious it is?

Miss R.M.G., Ore.

Dear Miss G.: Listening to the chest with a stethoscope is known as "auscultation."

Originally, the best way to listen to the chest was done by placing the ear against the chest wall. This, in the Victorian age, seemed to be a threat to modesty. A bamboo rod was then created for listening.

Then came the modern stethoscope, which amplifies sound and makes listening more exact.

Many doctors have developed the art of differentiating murmurs. By their sound, their position and their pitch, these doctors can tell which valve of the heart is involved.

Today, with electrocardiograms and electronic devices, the inside of the heart, the outside of the heart, and the heart muscle itself can release all its secrets.

When all this information is accumulated, the heart murmur can be identified fully.

What happened to the myth that aspirin is bad for the heart? Mr. J.G., Miss.

Dear Mr. G.: Aspirin is not dangerous to the heart. In fact, there is now a concept that a single aspirin taken daily may play an important role in the actual prevention of coronary artery disease.

This is based on the fact that aspirin, taken over a long period of time, does have a distinct "blood thinning" tendency.

Of course, this should not be tried without the specific instructions of one's doctor. For it is well known that patients with a tendency to stomach and duodenal ulcers should never take aspirin. Patients directly after surgery are usually told to avoid aspirin because of the slight tendency to bleed because of it.

Aspirin is a remarkable drug. Like any other drug, it should not be taken over a long period of time without the advice of a doctor.

How does blood plasma differ from regular blood, for a transfusion?

Mrs. E.V., R.I.

Dear Mrs. V.: Blood plasma is a watery fluid that makes up about 55 per cent of the total volume of blood. The rest is composed of red and white blood cells, hormones, minerals, platelets and many other cellular elements.

Plasma is separated from all of those cellular elements and is bottled and made available for emergency use. In such an emergency, it is extremely valuable because its use does not depend on blood types. Consequently, it can be used safely for "transfusion" before whole blood is available.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Goals you once thought unattainable are not out of reach today. Use your natural resourcefulness.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you're invited out today, by all means go. You could meet someone with whom you'll form an instantaneous relationship.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) This is a good day to fulfill social obligations. An impromptu invitation to your place would please those you "owe."

The last thing South wanted to do was to get to seven diamonds, but his partner's five notrump was the grand slam force. This tells South to bid seven if he holds two of the three top honors in diamonds.

South looked at the queen of hearts lead for some time. His first thought was to discard a spade from dummy and settle for down one. Then he thought some more, whistled "With a little bit of luck" and proceeded to make his contract.

More than a little luck was needed. He had to ruff three hearts in dummy. Those three ruffs plus his own four trumps, five clubs and one spade counted to 13 tricks.

South ruffed that first heart, led a low club from dummy and finessed his nine spot. One bit of luck. He ruffed a second heart, returned to his hand with the queen of clubs. No one ruffed in. Second bit of luck. Then he ruffed a third heart with the queen of trumps, led dummy's last trump, finessed his 10 spot. Third bit of luck. Picked trumps. They broke 3-2 and he had his 13 tricks.

A game or small slam contract is said to be a good one any time there is an even chance to make it based on the cards held by declarer and dummy.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

There's Nothing Impossible!

Dear Ann Landers: My wife insists she knows some women who have beat up their husbands during a heated argument.

I can understand a woman emerging victorious in a tennis match or a golf game — or even being a better bowler or skier than her husband, but the thought that a man would marry a woman who could physically overpower him is utterly inconceivable to me. I don't believe it is possible. Do you? — Keystone L.

sure somewhere in the world several wives are beating up their husbands.

Many women are in much

Call Atty.

Dear Ann Landers: Here's a problem I've never seen in your column. It is driving several families in our neighborhood crazy — especially mine.

There's this woman who lives down the block who insists on walking her dog all over our lawns at night. What the dog does is bad enough, but we could live with that. Our major complaint is that she walks very close to our windows. It is terribly upsetting to see a pair of eyes peering at you from the outside when you turn on the bathroom light.

this creepy character and several neighbors have written also. No response of any kind. A few people have even gone to her home and told her to cut it out. She has ignored their pleas. We phoned the police but they say they can't do anything unless they catch her and they are too busy to tail her. Any suggestions? — Sick Of Peeping Mary

Dear Sick Of P.M.: Any lawyer will tell you that Mary is trespassing on private property. Looking into windows is an additional offense. Both are clearly against the law. Phone an attorney and he will advise you.

New Look

Dear Ann Landers: I am 22 years old and have known for a long time that I should write to you, but I never had the nerve. The problem is a brown birthmark on my cheek that has bothered me all my life. People are always asking me if I have dirt on my face. It's embarrassing to them and to me when I tell them, "No, it isn't dirt, it's a birthmark."

I once tried a skin bleach but it didn't help; in fact, it irritated my skin and caused a miserable rash. Do you know if surgery can remove this awful thing? Would a doctor have to graft skin from another part of my body? If so, I would be laid up for quite a while and I can't afford to lose that much time from work.

Please give me some advice, Ann. — Blemished

Dear Friend: Bleaching is NOT the answer. For a temporary solution, there are excellent cover-up creams available at most drugstores and I hope you will buy one immediately.

A permanent solution is not a skin graft, but a sanding procedure called abrasive planing. It is done by skin specialists (under anesthesia). You'll be a mess for a couple of weeks, but when the scabbing disappears, you'll have a pinkish scar for a while (which can be covered by makeup), then gradually it should fade and your face will be perfectly normal.

What's prouder? What's O.K.? If you aren't sure, you need some help. It's available in the booklet: "Necking and Petting — What Are the Limits?" Mail your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120, enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Erma Bombeck

Senior Power

You don't hear a lot about Senior Power, but it's there. There are 20 million Americans older than 65 and they are easily the most discriminated-against minority of all.

That's why today, I'm giving equal time to grandmothers.

While back, I did a column on what grandchildren could expect from grandparents. With an assist from a sharp grand-mother in Rye, New York, here's some demands from grandparents.

1. Do not feel free to join me in the bathroom or run screaming to your mother when I throw you out. She may feel you are ready to be introduced to the mysteries of the human anatomy, but I don't.

2. When we're at the table and I am trying to get you to eat your din din, please don't call everyone's attention to the fact that I am talking to you with my mouth full.

3. Please, under no circumstances, fool around with the wires under my wheelchair.

4. When I am babysitting and have an important long-distance call, don't run out of the front door screaming and leaving me locked in. Granted you must have freedom, but I also have a nerve problem.

5. Please don't tear up my phone book just to keep busy while I am talking to a door-to-door salesman.

6. Please do not fill up the bathtub with water and float my hairbrush and comb in a solution of hair rinse perfume, bath oil, and bath powder. That makes me cry throughout an entire evening.

7. Do not become hysterical when the toilet flushes blue. It is not something you have done.

8. Do not play football with my best pillow near my antique hurricane lamp.

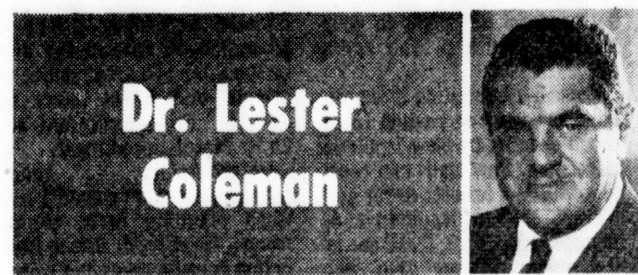

9. Unless you are a prodigy and a soloist with the Cleveland symphony at the age of 4, do not sit down at my piano with sticky fingers.

10. When my legs are crossed and you jump on my foot for a "ride" do not be surprised if my leg falls off.

11. Try to understand I do not have unlimited toys around. Although the dog has movable parts, most of them cannot be replaced.

12. I'd like very much to respond to your pleas of "carry me, Grandma" but frankly you took the words out of MY mouth.

Now Grandma, if your grievance committee was only old enough to read this, you'd have it made.

Dr. Lester Coleman

Can a doctor, simply by listening to the chest with a stethoscope, tell if a heart murmur is present and how serious it is?

Miss R.M.G., Ore.

Dear Miss G.: Listening to the chest with a stethoscope is known as "auscultation."

Originally, the best way to listen to the chest was done by placing the ear against the chest wall. This, in the Victorian age, seemed to be a threat to modesty. A bamboo rod was then created for listening.

Then came the modern stethoscope, which amplifies sound and makes listening more exact.

Many doctors have developed the art of differentiating murmurs. By their sound, their position and their pitch, these doctors can tell which valve of the heart is involved.

Today, with electrocardiograms and electronic devices, the inside of the heart, the outside of the heart, and the heart muscle itself can release all its secrets.

When all this information is accumulated, the heart murmur can be identified fully.

What happened to the myth that aspirin is bad for the heart? Mr. J.G., Miss.

Dear Mr. G.: Aspirin is not dangerous to the heart. In fact, there is now a concept that a single aspirin taken daily may play an important role in the actual prevention of coronary artery disease. This is based on the fact that aspirin, taken over a long period of time, does have a distinct

"blood thinning" tendency. Of course, this should not be tried without the specific instructions of one's doctor. For it is well known that patients with a tendency to stomach and duodenal ulcers should never take aspirin. Patients directly after surgery are usually told to avoid aspirin because of the slight tendency to bleed because of it.

Aspirin is a remarkable drug. Like any other drug, it should not be taken over a long period of time without the advice of a doctor.

How does blood plasma differ from regular blood, for a transfusion? Mrs. E.V., R.I.

Dear Mrs. V.:

Blood plasma is a watery fluid that makes up about 55 per cent of the total volume of blood. The rest is composed of red and white blood cells, hormones, minerals, platelets and many other cellular elements.

Plasma is separated from all of these cellular elements and is bottled and made available for emergency use. In such an emergency, it is extremely valuable because its use does not depend on blood types. Consequently, it can be used safely for "transfusion" before whole blood is available.

YUGOSLAVIAN PORT: The camera of Thayer Soule captures life much as it was centuries ago in Yugoslavian villages. "Yugoslavia" will be presented Sunday, Monday and Tuesday in Twin City Camera club's Travel and Adventure series.

Camera Club Will 'Visit' Yugoslavia

The Travel and Adventure series of Twin City Camera club moves to a place where relatively few Americans have thought of visiting — Yugoslavia.

Thayer Soule will present "Yugoslavia" Sunday at 2:30 p.m., Monday and Tuesday at 8 p.m. in St. Joseph high school auditorium.

While more Americans are discovering Yugoslavia the country on the Adriatic is still virtually untouched by tourist hordes.

Soule notes that a visit in Dubrovnik is like stepping back in time into the sixth century. Belgrade and Zagreb are more in tune with modern times, but still offer the charm of traditional architecture.

Another trait that impresses visitors is the friendliness of people who are proud of their rugged terrain, sun-drenched beaches and sparkling waters, Soule reports.

Soule decided on a career of producing travel films when he was seven years old. He saw a travelogue on Africa's Mountains of the Moon by author-explorer Carveth Wells. Young Soule started making his own shows consisting of postcards projected on a sheet in an attic theater.

His next step was a Brownie camera, then taking his own movies, and by freshman year in college he was earning pocket money with his programs.

Soule graduated magna cum laude from Harvard in 1939 and became production assistant in Bucon Holmes who coined the word "travelogue."

Soule's journeys have taken him more than a million miles through some 70 countries.

Pair Of Pentagon Officials Rebuked For Being Guests At Rockwell Lodges

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two top Pentagon officials were rebuked by Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld for accepting hospitality from a major defense contractor, although

Malcolm Currie
J. William Middendorf

that "I understand that there is no evidence of any improper influence" on them as a result of Rockwell's hospitality.

However, the defense secretary said both officials had overstepped the Defense Department's standards of conduct regulations and warned them against any similar actions in the future.

In separate statements, Currie acknowledged "bad judgment," and Middendorf said he regretted "that my failure to more fully investigate an invitation resulted in the appearance of an impropriety."

Rumsfeld could have fired them, as some of his advisers

reportedly urged him to do in the case of Currie to make him an example for other Defense Department civilian and military officials. But Rumsfeld chose to administer the lesser penalties, even though he had told a news conference on Feb. 5 that "I will land all over individuals who step outside the line."

There were some reports that influential members of Congress had urged Rumsfeld not to fire Currie. Asked whether consideration was given during an hours-long conference to firing the research chief, Pentagon spokesman William Greener said "all alternatives were considered."

In addition to the reprimand and the forfeiture of pay, Currie has been ordered to reimburse Rockwell for the expenses of himself and his daughter at Bimini and on flights to and from the island.

Pair Of Pentagon Officials Rebuked For Being Guests At Rockwell Lodges

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two top Pentagon officials were rebuked by Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld for accepting hospitality from a major defense contractor, although

Malcolm Currie

J. William Middendorf

some advisers to Rumsfeld reportedly had urged that one official be fired as a warning to others.

Dr. Malcolm R. Currie, the Pentagon's research chief, was handed a "severe reprimand" Tuesday night and ordered to forfeit four weeks salary because he and his daughter spent last Labor Day weekend at a Bahamas residence leased by Rockwell International Corp. and flew in the company's plane.

Navy Secretary J. William Middendorf received a letter of admonition, a less harsh rebuke, for going goose shooting 14 months ago at a Chesapeake Bay lodge owned by Rockwell, tenth biggest defense contractor and builder of the B1 bomber.

The Pentagon said Middendorf did not find out until two weeks ago that the place had any connection with Rockwell.

Rumsfeld told Currie and Middendorf in separate letters that "I understand that there is no evidence of any improper influence" on them as a result of Rockwell's hospitality.

However, the defense secretary said both officials had overstepped the Defense Department's standards of conduct regulations and warned them against any similar actions in the future.

In separate statements, Currie acknowledged "bad judgment," and Middendorf said he regretted "that my failure to more fully investigate an invitation resulted in the appearance of an impropriety."

Rumsfeld could have fired them, as some of his advisers

reportedly urged him to do in the case of Currie to make him an example for other Defense Department civilian and military officials. But Rumsfeld chose to administer the lesser penalties, even though he had told a news conference on Feb. 6 that "I will land all over individuals who step outside the line."

There were some reports that influential members of Congress had urged Rumsfeld not to fire Currie. Asked whether consideration was given during an hours-long conference to firing the research chief, Pentagon spokesman William Greener said "all alternatives were considered."

In addition to the reprimand and the forfeiture of pay, Currie has been ordered to reimburse Rockwell for the expenses of himself and his daughter at Bimini and on flights to and from the island.

Camera Club Will 'Visit' Yugoslavia

The Travel and Adventure series of Twin City Camera club moves to a place where relatively few Americans have thought of visiting — Yugoslavia.

Thayer Soule will present "Yugoslavia" Sunday at 2:30 p.m., Monday and Tuesday at 8 p.m. in St. Joseph high school auditorium.

While more Americans are discovering Yugoslavia, the country on the Adriatic is still virtually untouched by tourist hordes.

Soule notes that a visit to Dubrovnik is like stepping back into the sixth century. Belgrade and Zagreb are more in tune with modern times, but still offer the charm of traditional architecture.

Another trait that impresses visitors is the friendliness of people who are proud of their rugged terrain, sun-drenched beaches and sparkling waters, Soule reports.

Soule decided on a career of producing travel films when he was seven years old. He saw a travelogue on Africa's Mountains of the Moon by author-explorer Carverth Wells. Young Soule started making his own shows consisting of postcards projected on a sheet in an attic theater.

His next step was a Brownie camera, then taking his own

movies, and by freshman year in college he was earning pocket money with his programs.

Soule graduated magna cum laude from Harvard in 1939 and became production assistant to Burton Holmes who coined the word "travelogue."

Soule's journeys have taken him more than a million miles through some 70 countries.

Antibusing Bill Passed

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky's legislature has passed and sent to Gov. Julian Carroll a proposed law to allow Louisville residents to sidestep a desegregation plan drafted by a federal judge.

Carroll, an outspoken critic of busing for desegregation, won't decide whether to sign the bill until he's had time to study it, said John Nichols, his press secretary.

Illinois Voters Put Daley Back On Top

By MIKE ROBINSON
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Mayor Richard J. Daley has regained his standing as undisputed master of Illinois Democrats by denying renomination to his longtime foe, Gov. Daniel Walker, in the state's primary election.

Chicago organization unleashed a massive outpouring of votes Tuesday to give victory to the mayor's candidate, Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett, in Tuesday's balloting for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

"Ladies and gentlemen," Howlett said to a crowd at his headquarters down the block from City Hall, "we will win this race by upwards of 100,000 votes."

Walker, who was winning downstate but trailing statewide because of fallics from city wards, did not meet with his supporters. His press secretary said he went to bed after deciding the race was too close to call.

Daley, after counting up the votes, issued a statement at party headquarters in which he said Howlett would lead the Democratic party "to a great victory in November." Several weeks ago the mayor named Howlett grand marshal of the St. Patrick's Day parade today.

With 85 per cent of the precincts reported, it was Howlett 665,034 and Walker 570,634.

Howlett, 61, who called Walker "a bum" and "a jalopy spewing dirt" in the bitter campaign, will be matched in November against attorney James R. Thompson, 39, of Chicago, who trounced diet club millionaire Richard Cooper in the race for the Republican nomination.

Some politicians said they considered the Walker-Howlett match one of the dirtiest Illinois campaigns they could recall.

Walker upset the mayor's candidate, then-Lt. Gov. Paul Simon, in an anti-machine campaign in 1972. The same attacks on "Boss Daley" resulted in sizeable downstate totals again this time, but they could not offset the Howlett landslide in Chicago wards.

The governor, former general counsel of Marcor Inc. and Montgomery Ward and Co., also was the beneficiary of a considerable Republican crossover vote in the 1972 Democratic primary at a time when there was no serious GOP contest. He lost it this time with President Ford and Ronald Reagan both on the Illinois ballot.

Walker's administration was stormy, with Daley battling him over votes of school aid money and grants for the Chicago Transportation Authority. The mayor told a joint session of the Illinois legislature amidst the education veto fight that the state would be better off if Republican Richard B. Ogilvie, defeated by Walker in the 1972, had remained governor.

The two were at odds even before 1972. The governor was the author of the Walker Report to the President's Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence that said the disturbances outside the 1968 Democratic convention in Chicago were "police riots."

THE BOSS: Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley jubilantly waves to supporters in Chicago Tuesday night as state primary vote totals showed him regaining his standing as master of Illinois Democrats. Democratic maverick Gov. Dan Walker, who beat Daley's candidate for governor in 1972, was whipped Tuesday by Daley's man, Michael J. Howlett. (AP Wirephoto)

Berrien Drug Case Conviction Reversed

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

The Michigan Court of Appeals has reversed the conviction of a man found guilty in Berrien Circuit court of a drug-related offense, but upheld the armed robbery conviction of another man in a separate case.

Reversed was the conviction and subsequent 5 and one-third to 8 year prison sentence of Gary Lee Culvahouse, 22, of Berrien Springs, who was convicted in late 1974 of violation of the controlled substance act (delivery of marijuana) second offense.

Affirmed was the 1974 armed robbery conviction of Anthony Alexander, 21, of Benton Harbor, who was sentenced to 8 to 30 years in prison in January, 1975.

Culvahouse was charged with delivering marijuana to an undercover police officer Feb. 24, 1974, in St. Joseph, and was previously convicted of attempted delivery of amphetamines in 1973.

The appeals court held that Judge Julian E. Hughes, who presided over Culvahouse's trial, should not have instructed the jury on the issue of entrapment, ruling a judge should decide the issue of entrapment as a matter of law.

However, Assistant Prosecutor Sally Zuck noted the Berrien prosecutor's office has a test case currently before the Michigan Supreme Court challenging that issue, and if the Supreme Court should rule there was no error in instructing the jury on entrapment, Culvahouse's conviction would then be upheld.

She noted Culvahouse will remain in prison until the high court decides the issue.

Alexander was sentenced by Judge William S. White after being found guilty of robbing a Benton township used car dealer of between $20 and $30 with a sawed-off rifle.

The appeals court ruled neither the prosecution nor the court committed errors in Alexander's trial.

Ford's A Runaway; Carter Gets Bonus

By MIKE ROBINSON
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — President Ford and Jimmy Carter were, as expected, the winners in the Illinois primary election. And for Carter, there was an added bonus in a surprising haul of delegates.

Ford fashioned a runaway victory over Ronald Reagan, his fifth triumph in as many primary outings over the conservative Republican challenger.

Carter, meanwhile, trounced George Wallace, Sargent Shriver and Fred Harris in the Democratic race, enhancing his frontrunner status and effectively driving Shriver from the contest.

With 87 per cent of the vote in the preferential primary, or "beauty contest," counted, Ford had 389,586 or 59 per cent to 261,592 or 40 per cent for Reagan. Perennial Illinois candidate Lar Daly got the remaining one per cent of the vote.

Among the Democrats, the tally was:

Carter 335,206 or 48 per cent
Wallace 304,552 or 23 per cent
Shriver 180,663 or 19 per cent
Harris 86,987 or 8 per cent.

The race measures popularity but nets the winner no delegates.

The big surprise, in separate voting for delegates, was the block of 57 that Carter was winning with nearly half the voting counted. His camp had said getting just 25 would be a "massive achievement." Daley was winning 87 committed to Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, who is not a candidate.

Among the Republicans, with nearly half the votes counted, Ford had 64, Reagan 13 and 15 were uncommitted. Those elected from the 24 congressional districts are not bound to vote for the candidates to whom they are committed, even on the first ballot.

The Democrats will send 189 delegates to the national convention, the Republicans 101.

Ford called his supporters after victory and declared, "That's a great victory and another real clincher in our effort to win the nomination."

Carter, whose delegate slates were successful in rural and suburban counties, said he "did not expect to win nearly this big."

The former Georgia governor, who now has won four primaries, said the battle for the Democratic nomination probably would wind up between himself and the man who defeated him in Massachusetts, Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, with U.S. Rep. Morris K. Udall possibly "hanging in."

Jackson and Udall were not on the ballot in Illinois.

Shriver, his campaign already ailing after bad showings in New England, said he has "no intention of entering any more primaries," except those in Texas and Maryland. He'll do that only to "protect" delegates already on the ballot pledged to him, he said. But he predicted no one would win the nomination on the first ballot and that the national convention will turn into a free-for-all.

"I intend to be in that free-for-all," Shriver said.

Galien Juvenile Is Sent To Adult Court

By NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

A Galien juvenile with "a lengthy juvenile record of burglaries" has been waived into adult court following a hearing before Probate Judge Zoe S. Burkholz, according to Asst. Prosecutor John Sullivan.

Scheduled for arraignment next week in Berrien Circuit court on a charge of breaking into a Baroda house is Timothy Leo Baggett, 16, of route 1, Cleveland avenue. He was lodged in the county jail in lieu of bond.

Sullivan said the prosecutor's office petitioned Juvenile court to order the youth into adult court because of his lengthy juvenile record.

Berrien Sheriff's Det. Fred Reeves said Baggett was taken into custody in Baroda, Fla., on Feb. 7 on a warrant charging breaking and entering the Max Nitz home, Baroda, last October. Allegedly stolen during the burglary were a safe and antique coins.

The warrant for Baggett was issued after the apprehension of two other juvenile boys that sheriff's officers said cleared up at least four auto thefts and two burglaries in the Baroda area in a three-week period in October, Reeves said. The boys were petitioned into Juvenile court at that time, he added.

Battery Blast Victim In Hospital

A Benton township man remains hospitalized after injuring his eye a week ago when a car battery exploded as he was attempting to start his car at his home.

Edward Burnside, 24, of 143 North Shore drive, was reported in "satisfactory" condition today at St. Joseph Memorial hospital where he was admitted after the accident last Wednesday.

According to Mrs. Burnside doctors are still determining what effect the injury will have on sight in the eye. It is not known how much longer he will remain in the hospital.

Mrs. Burnside said her husband was using jumper cables from the battery in his car to a battery in another car when the other car's battery exploded. She said it was a neighbor's car, but did not identify him.

Allegan Two-Car Crash Puts 2 Men In Hospital

ALLEGAN — Two men were hospitalized last night as the result of a two-car collision on 102nd avenue about five miles south of here, according to Allegan sheriff's deputies.

Listed in satisfactory condition this morning at Borgess hospital, Kalamazoo, was Gene Dickerson, 30, of Bloomington. Listed in good condition this morning at Pipp Community hospital, Plainwell, was John Laerolx, 65, Grand Junction.

Three other men, all riding in the same car with Dickerson, were treated and released from Pipp, deputies said. They were William Rowelson, 35, of Bloomington, who was driving, Jerry Nielson, 25, Grand Junction, and Ronald Hughes, 29, of Bloomington.

Officers said Laerolx was driving alone eastbound on 102nd about 10:30 p.m. when his car swerved across the center line striking the westbound Rowelson car. Officers said Laerolx told them his right wheels had slipped into the shoulder moments before the collision, and he swerved across the center line while attempting to return the car to the road.

No tickets were issued, deputies said.

Students will visit according to a schedule designed to space limitations throughout the week. Parental permission for both host and visiting student will be required for attendance. Parents of visiting students will also be asked to notify their schools of their absence.

Lake Michigan Catholic operates an elementary school in Benton Harbor and a high school in St. Joseph.

It's Rice During Lent

Lake Michigan Catholic elementary school students will participate in Operation Rice Bowl during the Lenten season, according to Robert J. Schmid, principal.

Operation Rice Bowl is a means for students to share with the hungry of the world, Schmid said. Young Mattawan Boy Sentenced To Jail PAW PAW — A Mattawan youth was found in contempt of court and ordered to serve four days in jail yesterday after he showed up for a preliminary examination without an attorney.

Judge William C. Buhl of the Seventh district court imposed the sentence on Edward T. Edmore, 17, after Edmore appeared for a hearing on a breaking and entering charge without an attorney he had told Buhl he would retain.

Judge Buhl re-scheduled the hearing for March 23. Edmore is accused of stealing an $855 stereo system from Mattawan high school in December.

Jeffrey C. Koster, 17, Mattawan, demanded preliminary examination on a charge of breaking and entering in connection with the same case. He was freed on his own recognizance pending a March 23 hearing.

In another case, Rojerio Machado, 25, 301 South Haver, Hartford, was bound over to Van Buren circuit court after waiving preliminary examination on a charge of concealing stolen property. The charge grew out of the Feb. 11 theft of a citizens band radio in Hartford.

Bond was continued at $1,000.

Watervliet Bridge Gets State Approval

WATERVLIET — Preliminary plans for the Butternut Street bridge replacement have been okayed by the state and construction will start this summer, the Watervliet city commission learned from the project engineers last night.

City commissioners heard a report from Maurice Rushlow of Wightman and Associates that the state is returning the preliminary plan for final drawings this week and state highway department officials have approved the project.

The 54-foot long, concrete box beam bridge will cost an estimated $141,211, with the state paying $115,657 of the bill. The remainder will be paid by the city.

In other matters, the commission agreed to change parking on Pleasant street to make parking comply with state uniform regulations for major streets.

Approving the changes submitted by the city street committee and Rushlow, the commission will eliminate parking on one side of Pleasant street from St. Joseph to Lucinda. The street isn't wide enough for two-way parking, under state standards.

Four areas in town that presently have angle parking will also have to be changed and five locations must have shoulder widths expanded, the commission was told.

Rushlow also reported a test run on the city water system chemical feeding equipment was made last Saturday, with all equipment checked for accuracy and approved for use.

Mayor Arvid Frazier reported he will contact the city attorney over a notice from the Farmers Home Administration (FHA) that announced suspension of purchasing bonds for the city's water system. The FHA has already partially purchased bonds for the water system but a Michigan Court of Appeals case involving bonds has held up bond issues throughout the state.

The commission took under study a rummage sale ordinance proposed by Commissioner Sandra Pritchett. The ordinance would limit the number of days for a sale, require registration and a small fee, list fines for violations and other related details. Non-profit organizations would be exempt from the ordinance.

Approved for payment was $9,142 for the city's half of costs for the new fire truck chassis. Watervliet township will pay the other half.

A $150 monthly charge for use of city hall facilities by the joint city and township ambulance service was also approved by the board.

Commissioners agreed not to participate in the extension of CETA employment benefits for two months. The two CETA employees currently working for the city will not be retained under the CETA program.

Commissioners also voted not to participate in Mayor's Exchange Day this year to try to save money. Costs ran between $200 to $500 on previous exchange days.

Baroda Township Names Panel

BARODA — Baroda township board last night tabled for further study a request for $800 for the central county center of the Berrien county council on aging, located in Berrien Springs.

The board appointed four members of the Baroda senior citizens group to survey the needs of the area's elderly and ask if they would benefit from the central center's services, according to Emil Nitz, township clerk.

Present at the meeting and named to make the survey were Mrs. Lucinda Dunham, president of the local group, Mr. and Mrs. George Zierle and Mrs. Elaine Fowler.

The request for the funds was made by Mrs. Barbara Williams and Gerald Culley of the central center.

The board, last July, denied a request for $1,500 for support of the central center, stating the residents would benefit more from an organization located nearer to their homes.

In other business, the board voted to contact the Berrien county planning commission requesting its services for updating the township zoning ordinances. Approximate cost for the service will be $3,500, Nitz said.

It was voted to appropriate

$300 to the Berrien county sheriff's Metro crime unit. Nitz stated the township's annual meeting will be held on Saturday, April 3 at 1:30 p.m. in the township hall.

Allegan May Have To Buy Car Insurance In England

ALLEGAN — Allegan county commissioners learned yesterday that only the fabled Lloyd's of London appears willing to underwrite insurance coverage for five sheriff's department squad cars.

At the request of the board's finance committee, Allegan insurance agent John Kyes appeared before the board to report that the London firm had set a preliminary premium of $5,000 annually for the five cars on a $500 deductible basis.

He said the department's coverage had been canceled by two major companies in the closing months of last year because of a high loss ratio. Kyes said he had been able to obtain minimum coverage through the state's high risk pool.

He said the present coverage applies only to accidents in which drivers of sheriff's cars are not at fault.

The department's cars were involved in 12 major accidents in 1975 with a total insured loss of $7,082, Kyes said. He indicated deputies were held at fault in half of those accidents and sheriff's cars were involved in two more accidents this year.

Kyes suggested that rather than pay the rates set by Lloyd's and pay the first $500 damage more thorough study of the need for a second court.

The committee's resolution said statistics offered in support of the plan were "vague and inconclusive."

Upset over a substantial increase in gasoline consumption by sheriff's patrol cars, commissioners voted to install automatic fuel metering on the department's gas pump at a cost of about $700.

The electronic device will record the amount of fuel pumped by the holders of special keys assigned to each deputy.

The board approved a request from the sheriff for permission to cooperate with the villages of Saugatuck and Douglas in setting up a fire dispatching system through the department's new emergency communications network.

The board voted to deny a $2,000 claim of William McLeod, former jail rehabilitation program director who is seeking severance pay and educational expenses incurred as an employee of the county's mental health department.

The board accepted for study a proposed ambulance ordinance. The draft now goes to the board of health for consideration before returning for board action.

Commissioners named Fennville pharmacist Ross, Alexander to replace L.E. White of Allegan, who resigned recently from the board of health.

The commissioners approved an annual rental fee of $3.50 per square foot for space occupied by the state department of social services in the new county service center at Dumont lake. The figure is more than triple the present rate of $1.06 per square foot and will be subject to negotiation, according to finance committee members.

Senese, who announced earlier that he had joined Chairman Jerry Lohman of Hamilton in deciding not to seek another term as commissioner, cast the only yes vote.

Another major change in county government, the creation of a second district judgeship for Allegan county, was opposed by the board in a resolution reported out of the finance committee. The second judgeship has been recommended by the state court administrator.

The resolution urged the state legislature to go slow on the plan pending the outcome of a Kyes suggested that rather than pay the rates set by Lloyd's and pay the first $500 damage for each accident, the county should cover its own collision losses in the future.

The board decided to wait until Sheriff Robert Whitcomb returns from a Florida vacation before considering insurance alternatives.

In other areas, commissioners headed off two proposals for two major changes in county government.

On one of the proposals, commissioners voted 11 to one against Commissioner Ralph Senese's suggestion to combine the register of deeds with the county clerk.

The Otsego commissioner's motion would have eliminated the register's post now held by Howard Strandt at the end of his present four-year term on Dec. 31.

Senese, who announced earlier that he had joined Chairman Jerry Lohman of Hamilton in deciding not to seek another term as commissioner, cast the only yes vote.

Another major change in county government, the creation of a second district judgeship for Allegan county, was opposed by the board in a resolution reported out of the finance committee. The second judgeship has been recommended by the state court administrator.

The resolution urged the state legislature to go slow on the plan pending the outcome of a more thorough study of the need for a second court.

The committee's resolution said statistics offered in support of the plan were "vague and inconclusive."

Upset over a substantial increase in gasoline consumption by sheriff's patrol cars, commissioners voted to install automatic fuel metering on the department's gas pump at a cost of about $700.

'Red Squad' File Laxity Is Denied

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State Police Director George Halverson, named by the governor to investigate illegal dissemination of "Red Squad" files, said Tuesday that police were not lax in giving out information.

"While saying it would be another 10 days before interviews in the probe were completed, Halverson told the House Civil Rights Committee that information from the files was given out only on a "need to know" basis.

"People think we're country cops," he said. "We're a little more sophisticated than that. We don't all wear white socks or move our lips when we read."

The 1950 law which created the Subversive Activities Unit barred disclosure of its files, except to local police agencies. Gov. William Milliken last week asked Halverson to probe reports that information from the 50,000 files was given to prospective employers. Halverson told the committee that any information given to employers probably came from the local law enforcement agencies, whose use of the data is not regulated by law.

At the same time, however, he conceded that police "have not been able to track down all the places information from the files went to," partly because the microfilm files contain no notation on their use.

Halverson also said that unless faced with subpoenas, he will not allow some of the men working for the unit to testify to the committee.

He said the men continue to do undercover work to assist grand juries and help in special investigations. Allowing them to testify would blow their cover and endanger their lives, he said.

The State Police colonel said his department gave utility companies information from the department's criminal activities files about groups connected with utility bombings.

But he said no information from the Red Squad files ever went directly to the firms and information given them was never on individuals named in Red Squad files.

He said the squad conducted surveillance on groups planning demonstrations to gauge what kind of activity might follow with an eye to what police response might be necessary.

In some cases, the squad worked in joint teams with Detroit Police with information

SANDRA GOOD AND SUSAN MURPHY
After Jury Verdict Of Guilty

shared by both groups, he said. Halverson also defended the role the squad played in defending visiting dignitaries by pointing out that Arthur Bremer, who shot and paralyzed Alabama Gov. George Wallace, "was present at many gatherings at which Wallace spoke in Michigan."

In January an Ingham County Circuit Court judge declared the 1950 law that authorized the squad unconstitutional. He ordered the unit disbanded and the files destroyed. People who wanted their files preserved had until Tuesday to petition the court.

Another suit against the squad is being heard in Wayne County.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has proclaimed May 14 as National Day of Prayer 1976. Manson Cultist, Friend Convicted

By BOB EGEIKO
Associated Press Writer
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Manson cultist Sandra Good, saying she regrets she didn't actually "kill somebody," has been convicted of threatening to slay business and government leaders she accused of polluting the earth.

The 31-year-old daughter of a stockbroker, and a friend, former nurse Susan Murphy, 33, were found guilty Tuesday by a jury that deliberated less than two hours.

Miss Good was one of the last members of convicted killer Charles Manson's original "family" still outside prison. Miss Good, convicted on five counts, faces a 25-year jail term when she returns to court for sentencing April 13.

The two women were charged with conspiring to mail letters threatening the lives of people they accused of polluting the earth. A friend said he was asked to mail 17 of the letters but turned them over to the FBI.

Miss Good, who claimed the letters were not threats but warnings, was also charged with making threats in telephone interviews with three radio stations and a newspaper.

A few hours before the verdict was returned, Miss Good, who acted as her own attorney, made a closing statement in which she set fire to a $100 bill and told the jury, "This is your truth, trust and faith." She also said she wanted to go to prison.

Garbed in a blue, nun-like habit, Miss Good took the verdict quietly, rising only to ask U.S. District Court Judge Thomas MacBride if she could waive a probation report and be sentenced immediately.

MacBride refused.

Miss Murphy, wearing a similar hooded outfit in black, then rejected MacBride's offer to remain free until sentencing, choosing instead to go to jail. She could be sentenced to five years in prison on her conviction on one count.

Both women are friends of Lynette Fromme, a Manson disciple who is serving a life sentence for trying to kill President Ford in a park near the California state Capitol here Sept. 5.

'Red Squad' File Laxity Is Denied

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State Police Director George Halverson, named by the governor to investigate illegal dissemination of "Red Squad" files, said Tuesday that police were not lax in giving out information.

While saying it would be another 10 days before interviews in the probe were completed, Halverson told the House Civil Rights Committee that information from the files was given out only on a "need to know" basis.

"People think we're country cops," he said. "We're a little more sophisticated than that. We don't all wear white socks or move our lips when we read."

The 1950 law which created the Subversive Activities Unit barred disclosure of its files, except to local police agencies. Gov. William Milliken last week asked Halverson to probe reports that information from the 50,000 files was given to prospective employers.

Halverson told the committee that any information given to employers probably came from the local law enforcement agencies, whose use of the data is not regulated by law.

At the same time, however, he conceded that police "have not been able to track down all the places information from the files went to," partly because the microfilmed files contain no notation on their use.

Halverson also said that unless faced with subpoenas, he will not allow some of the men working for the unit to testify to the committee.

He said the men continue to do undercover work to assist grand juries and help in special investigations. Allowing them to testify would blow their cover and endanger their lives, he said.

The State Police colonel said his department gave utility companies information from the department's criminal activities files about groups connected with utility bombings.

But he said no information from the Red Squad files ever went directly to the firms and information given them was never on individuals named in Red Squad files.

He said the squad conducted surveillance on groups planning demonstrations to gauge what kind of activity might follow with an eye to what police response might be necessary.

In some cases, the squad worked in joint teams with Detroit Police with information

SANDRA GOOD AND SUSAN MURPHY
After Jury Verdict Of Guilty

shared by both groups, he said.

Halverson also defended the role the squad played in defending visiting dignitaries by pointing out that Arthur Bremer, who shot and paralyzed Alabama Gov. George Wallace, "was present at many gatherings at which Wallace spoke in Michigan."

In January an Ingham County Circuit Court judge declared the 1950 law that authorized the squad unconstitutional. He ordered the unit disbanded and the files destroyed. People who wanted their files preserved had until Tuesday to petition the court.

Another suit against the squad is being heard in Wayne County.

Cost Factor Delays PBB Meat Labeling Bill

By MARY STEVENSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Legislation requiring meat containing PBB to be labeled as such bogged down in House debate Tuesday over its cost to the state and farmers.

The bill is sponsored by Rep. Donald Albosta, D-St. Charles, head of a special committee investigating the effects on humans of eating PBB-contaminated products.

PBB, or polybrominated biphenyl, is a toxic fire retardant chemical that was accidentally mixed with Michigan livestock feed in 1973.

Since then, more than 20,000 cattle who ate the contaminated feed have been destroyed, along with 1.5 million chickens, hundreds of hogs, and large quantities of milk and butter. Some farm families who ate contaminated produce have complained of illness.

Michigan health officials say no short-term illnesses have been linked with human consumption of PBB-contaminated food, but the state is conducting a 15-year study to long-term effects.

Under federal guidelines, it is legal to sell products containing less than three-tenths parts per million PBB.

Albosta's bill would require meat or a meat product from a herd containing any detectable level of PBB to bear a label stating that fact. The bill also requires the state Department of Agriculture to provide for testing and inspection of meat for the presence of PBB before it could be sold for public consumption. The department estimates the bill would cost the state close to $2 million.

Albosta said he wants to protect Michigan citizens, adding "I'm damn sick and tired of testimony that puts tears in my eyes from women who say their children are sick."

Rep. Quincy Hoffman, R-Applegate, who is on Albosta's committee, said the problem is serious but moved that the measure go to the House Appropriations Committee to accurately determine the effect on the state and farmers.

The way the bill is now written, he said, a farmer could have a herd of cattle with only two or three actually contaminated.

"Suppose they are all then labeled because they come from a contaminated herd," Hoffman said. "No housewife with any common sense is going to buy."

Rep. John Engler, R-Mt. Pleasant, offered an amendment requiring that PBB be found in a specific animal before the meat from that animal could be labeled as containing PBB.

"It seems that if half a herd doesn't contain PBB it should not suffer the same penalties as those containing levels of PBB," he said.

Minority Floor Leader William Bryant, R-Grosse Pointe, added "Are you telling me that if there is one animal in a herd of 100 with PBB, the whole herd is worthless?"

But Albosta said the amendment would make the bill too costly.

SEPARATING?: Princess Margaret, 45, sister of Queen Elizabeth II of Britain, and her husband, Lord Snowdon, 46, plan a legal separation, the London newspaper Daily Express reported in Wednesday editions. Newspaper said Queen Elizabeth II believed to have consented to the separation for Margaret and her husband, the former Anthony Armstrong-Jones. (AP Wirephoto)

When Redcoats Woke, George's Cannons Were Ready

By DANIEL Q. HANEY
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP) — On a March morning 200 years ago, British officers climbed onto Boston rooftops and gaped at a ridge across the harbor. There, unbelievably, two forts and a row of cannon had popped up while they slept.

"The rebels have done more in one night than my whole army would have done in Parliament who felt the same way.

But the victory was something less than total. The British Army, after all, was still intact. It was able to sail away and regroup with practically no loss of life.

Washington made a great show of force without using it. He outfoxed his enemy instead of overwhelming it.

Ever since the previous April,

Congress.

"Many of the officers sent in their names to serve in expectation of promotion. Others stood aloof to see what advantage they could make themselves, whilst a number who had declined have again sent in their names to serve."

"The difficulty with the soldiers is as great, indeed more so if possible, than with the officers. They will not enlist until they know their colonel, lieutenant colonel, major, captain, etc."

Washington acquired one major advantage — the 41 cannon and 16 mortars captured from the British at Ft. Ticonderoga in New York and dragged overland to Boston by American troops led by Gen. Henry Knox.

The cannon eventually were used to fortify Dorchester Heights, a ridge with a commanding view of Boston just across the harbor. From there, the artillery had a clear shot at the city.

His strategy was simple: force the enemy into a battle or to make the town too hot for them.

To divert the enemy's attention, Washington began a cannon barrage from the opposite end of the city on March 2. Two nights later, the cannon still booming, his men marched quietly onto the heights.

"The night was remarkably mild," wrote the Rev. William Gordon. "A finer night for working could not have been taken out of the whole 365. It was hazy below so that our people could not be seen, though it was a bright moonlight night above on the hill."

They worked in the dark, setting up cannon and prefabricated fortifications.

The next morning, the British could not believe their eyes. The fortifications "appeared more like magic than the work of human beings," British Capt. Charles Stuart later wrote.

Although it would have been disastrous for the British, Howe decided to take on the cannon-covered hill with a bayonet attack. But luckily for the Redcoats a storm came up, and the mission was canceled.

All that was left was for the British to leave. Without really saying so, Washington agreed to let the British sail out unmolested, and Howe agreed not to burn Boston.

Continental Army, and Abigail Adams wrote her husband, John: "I think the sun looks brighter, the birds sing more melodiously, and nature puts on a more cheerful countenance."

So it was over. Twelve days later, on March 17, 1776, a St. Patrick's Day, 8,900 of the king's soldiers and 1,100 Bostonians who stayed loyal to him climbed aboard 78 ships and sailed off for Halifax in Nova Scotia.

And George Washington, the man responsible, went to the Bunch of Grapes tavern to celebrate his first victory of the Revolution. It came eight months and 14 days after he had taken command of the Continental Army.

when colonial Minutemen and royal soldiers first battled at Lexington and Concord, the British had been virtual prisoners in Boston.

Thousands of enthusiastic colonists had swarmed around the city. They cut the British off by land and picked away at their supply lines from sea.

On July 3, 1775, Washington, newly appointed by the Second Continental Congress, arrived in Cambridge to take command.

His army was little more than a crowd of 13,743 untrained rebels who needed a bath. They were critically short of guns, powder and discipline.

NEW BLOWER: Gast Manufacturing Corp. has developed two models of regenerative blowers for a variety of applications where large amounts of air are needed at low pressure. Unit is about 21 inches high and 19 inches in diameter. Air enters opening at left and can be piped where needed.

DNR Wants Coastal Areas Nominated For Protection

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) is taking recommendations for areas along Michigan's coast to be protected under the new federal Coastal Zone Management act.

David Hollomon, senior planner for the Southwestern Michigan Regional Planning commission, said the DNR is in the process of developing a plan for the entire state and is seeking recommendations for "Areas of Particular Concern" to be covered under the act.

Michigan is one of 34 states and U.S. territories which will receive federal funds from the U.S. Department of Commerce for management of areas along coastlines. Hollomon said Michigan will receive at least $1 million for protection of specific coastal areas. Funding is expected in a year to a year and a half, he said.

"Areas of Particular Concern" are outlined as being unique or fragile and will include erosion and flood hazard areas, areas of ecological importance, natural areas, recreation areas, areas of historical value, agricultural lands and mineral resource areas.

Gast To Produce New Air Blowers

Gast Manufacturing corporation has developed a regenerative blower to complement its line of air motors, vacuum pumps and air compressors.

Gast announced it will manufacture two models of regenerative blowers of three-horsepower each at its main plant, 2300 M-139, where rotary product manufacturing is based.

The new Gast plant at Bridgman is completed and manufactures the reciprocating product line.

Basically, a regenerative air blower is used when a large amount of air is needed but at low pressure.

Regenerative blowers are used in the textile industry to move fabric. It has the added advantage of picking up lint and cuttings. The printing industry makes extensive use of regenerative systems along with vacuum air to move and hold paper.

Ponds are aerated by blowers to provide additional oxygen for plant and fish life. In another application blowers protect boats and docks stored in water in winter by aerating the water with bubbles which prevents ice from forming.

Gast regenerative blowers can be used in these applications, engineers said.

The original Gast line of air motors, vacuum pumps and air compressors are basically high pressure units. However, many units now using Gast products also have use for regenerative blowers.

Gast developed two three-horsepower models after several years of market research and engineering. The Gast models have features not found in competitive units, the engineers said. Basically, they will move more air at less energy cost at a lower noise level, according to the engineers.

The new units are called "Ram I" and "Ram II." Ram I can move 180 cubic feet of air a minute while the companion Ram II model moves 100 cubic feet of air.

Rule Foolish, Says Goldwater

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressman can attend two dinners a night, seven nights a week, says Sen. Barry Goldwater, and they ought to look at who is picking up the tab before they start criticizing defense officials who accept hunting trips from government contractors.

Goldwater said a Defense Department rule requiring officials to turn down invitations from contractors was foolish.

South Haven Welcome Mat's Out For Glenn Students

By TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — An invitation to the rural Glenn school district to enroll its students in the South Haven school system was extended by the South Haven school board last night.

The board said it would be willing to accept the Glenn junior and senior high age students on a tuition basis and would be interested in discussing the possibility of having the entire district annexed to South Haven.

The Glenn district lies in Allegan county's Ganges township north of South Haven in Van Buren county. The districts border each other. South Haven district currently includes Casco township also in Allegan county.

Junior and senior high age students from the Glenn district are currently attending the Saugatuck high school. The rest attend a two-room schoolhouse in Glenn.

The Fenoville school board has also said it would be interested in having the Glenn students. Currently the Glenn district has 116 students with 55 in the junior and senior high categories.

No tuition rate was mentioned. Supt. Harold Gaarde noted that enrollment of the Glenn students would balance the effect of an anticipated drop in enrollment in the South Haven system next fall. He has projected a decline in enrollment next year of 63 students from the current 3,377.

Gaarde said South Haven can accommodate the Glenn students without increasing the size of elementary classrooms. He also noted that the new Skill Center program has made it possible to accommodate more high school students.

tensive public hearings throughout the state, Hunsucker said.

The meeting was originally to be in the city commission chambers, but moved to the larger library auditorium because of the big turnout. The mechanics came from most communities of southwestern Michigan.

Hunsucker after the meeting told this newspaper that about 30 similar sessions are being held, but this one drew the largest afternoon turnout. The Benton Harbor meeting was to be followed by another Tuesday night in Kalamazoo. Hunsucker said all meetings so far have drawn sharp protests.

"Our philosophy is to solve problems," Hunsucker told the gathering, adding, "We go on POP—pattern of practice—in pursuing enforcement." This means several complaints against one shop.

Hunsucker said no audits of businesses will be made, and investigations into alleged illegitimacies are to be made only on the receipt of complaints from customers.

The Automotive Service Council, a trade organization, has predicted that paperwork required by the act will cost each of the state's 40,000 repair shops $3,000 a year, or a total of $200 million. The council also predicted this would be passed onto the customers.

Hunsucker doubted this, saying there probably are not 40,000 shops in the state. He said his department mailed out 40,000 forms, but these were "shotgun mailings," and several forms may have gone to one shop. Hunsucker said there are probably between 15,000 and 20,000 shops in the state.

One mechanic said a service and repair act in California increased the cost of repairs to the point where some mechanics in San Francisco are charging $32 per hour, flat rate. He said he is working for $11 an hour, now, and might need $15 an hour, adding that the customer might be driven out of the market.

It also was reported that under the California law, only one case was prosecuted.

Hunsucker said this might be true for one year, but Hunsucker knew that in another of the four years the law has existed in that state, 13 cases were prosecuted.

Under Michigan law, Hunsucker said shops must be registered with the state now. The shop must provide for each mechanic to be certified for each repair specialty by Jan. 1, 1978. He said every mechanic must be certified individually by Jan. 1, 1981.

Hunsucker said this should provide shop owners ample time to adjust to the law. He added that the state will go slow in enforcement for a time, because the revised act was only approved last year.

The present act does not call for $10,000 surety bonds, Hunsucker said. The original bill did.

There are some exemptions to the act:

—Institutions or businesses that repair their vehicles without compensation, such as schools that may service their own buses.

—Garages that are under contract to only one customer, such as a fleet owner, and do no other work.

—Supply businesses that may rebuild parts to sell over the counter, but do not diagnose or do actual repair work on vehicles.

—Service stations that sell only gasoline and do no mechanical work.

—The portion of auto agency work dealing with renovating used cars, to be put on sale to the public.

One mechanic asked if state police will have to be certified for making safety inspections on cars and other vehicles, such as school buses. Hunsucker said he didn't know the answer to this.

As to shop fees to the state, Hunsucker said they range from $25 to $300 per shop, based on a formula. Hunsucker said the formula calls for an amount of gross sales for repair work over the most recent year.

Parents Back Jefferson School

one of the major criteria in buying a home is having a school in walking distance. She quoted the letter as stating the close of Jefferson would have a "severe detrimental effect" on property values for homes near the school.

Dr. Gale Cutler, 218 Crofton Circle, said, "Jefferson school is a part of this community. If the school closes part of the community dies." Cutler said he was speaking on behalf of a number of Jefferson school parents who requested he do so.

The board was also asked to look into other areas for possible cutbacks to save money. Percy countered, "What types of programs would you parents be willing to give up to keep Jefferson open?"

At one point, after School Supt. Burton Aldrich confirmed it took $25,000 a year to operate a planetarium at Upton junior high school, Mrs. Sharon Meschke, 1904 South State street, said, "Isn't the welfare of 110 families more important than a frill. The planetarium is not necessary."

One cutback suggestion from the audience was to eliminate (sell) the Washington elementary school and move the students to other schools in the district.

Another man noted there are 51 teachers at the high school, half of whom he said are teaching subjects he would like his children to learn about and the "others are teaching gingerbread (subjects)."

At the close of the meeting Dumke said, "The whole issue is in its infancy. I wouldn't get too excited about it."

Aldrich said a board decision on the closing could come as late as June.

Other board members in attendance were: Dr. Joseph Naines, John Pietmeier, Mrs. Beverly Linn and Mrs. Freda Sparks. Other school officials in attendance were Daryl L. Macgrayne, principal at Jefferson; and Anthony Betski, principal at Lincoln school, which would receive Jefferson students if the school were closed.

Niles Boys Charged With Robbery Of Niles M.D., 75

By JOHN DYE
South Berrien Bureau

NILES — Two 16-year-old Niles boys were taken into custody here early this morning about two hours after a 73-year-old Niles' physician told police two young men broke into his home and robbed him of $15 at knifepoint.

Niles police said a tracking dog was used to follow the trail of two people from the home of Dr. Fred Henderson, 1119 Weesaw road, Niles, to a house where the two boys were arrested. A knife and $15 were confiscated, police said. The two boys were held on charges of armed robbery, police said.

Dr. Henderson, a former president of the Berrien County Medical Society, and his wife, Mary, were not harmed in the holdup, police said. Mrs. Henderson said she and her husband were awakened about 3:30 a.m. today, when two young men broke into their house. While one of the two remained in a hallway, a second walked into the bedroom, brandished a knife, demanded cash and was handed a wallet containing $15 by Dr. Henderson, she said.

Police said patrolman Larry Brock and tracking dog were able to trace the two from Dr. Henderson's residence about two miles to a house near the corner of Front and Howard streets.

Disaster Aid Requested

From Associated Press

Allegan county is among 29 counties across the middle of Michigan's lower peninsula that Governor William Milliken on Tuesday asked President Ford to declare disaster areas as result of the March 2 ice storm.

Damage amounting to $72.8 million was estimated in Governor Milliken's letter that was to be hand-carried to Chicago by Leo MacNamee, assistant regional director for the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration.

He listed $13.3 million in public damage, $18.6 million in agricultural damage, and an estimated $20.8 million in private damage.

In addition, the letter said private utilities suffered about $20 million in damage, though the companies are not eligible for federal disaster aid.

Milliken also said state and local governments have spent or will spend $2.2 million for which they will not be reimbursed under federal programs.

He said the effort needed to handle the situation "is beyond the capabilities of the state and local governments in that funds available to the political subdivisions, individuals and families to repair and restore public and private facilities are either not available or sufficient to cope with the magnitude of this disaster."

If Ford grants the disaster declaration, individuals will be eligible for federal programs such as temporary housing, disaster assistance, individual and family grant programs, food stamps, small Business Administration loans, agricultural loans and public assistance grants.

The 29 counties are: Allegan, Bay, Clare, Clinton, Genesee, Gladwin, Gratiot, Ionia, Isabella, Jackson, Kent, Lapeer, Macomb, Mecosta, Midland, Montcalm, Muskegon, Newaygo, Oakland, Osego, Oshtemo, Ottawa, Roscommon, Saginaw, St. Clair, Sanilac, Shiawassee, Tuscola, and Wayne.

South Haven Welcome Mat's Out For Glenn Students

South Haven Correspondent
SOUTH HAVEN — An invitation to the rural Glenn school district to enroll its students in the South Haven school system was extended by the South Haven school board last night.

The board said it would be willing to accept the Glenn junior and senior high age students on a tuition basis and would be interested in discussing the possibility of having the entire district annexed to South Haven.

The Glenn district lies in Allegan county's Ganges township north of South Haven in Van Buren county. The districts border each other. South Haven district currently includes Casco township also in Allegan county.

Junior and senior high age students from the Glenn district are currently attending the Saugatuck high school. The rest attend a two-room schoolhouse in Glenn.

The Fennville school board has also said it would be interested in having the Glenn students. Currently the Glenn district has 116 students with 55 in the junior and senior high categories.

No tuition rate was mentioned.

Supt. Harold Gaarde noted that enrollment of the Glenn students would balance the effect of an anticipated drop in enrollment in the South Haven system next fall. He has projected a decline in enrollment next year of 53 students from the current 3,377.

Gaarde said South Haven can accommodate the Glenn students without increasing the size of elementary classrooms. He also noted that the new Skill Center program has made it possible to accommodate more high school students.

"If we can prevent our enrollment from declining sharply it will enable us to operate more economically in the sense that less local effort will be needed to support the school system's operations," said Gaarde.

In other matters, the board approved by a 6-1 vote a $1,200 appropriation for the 1976-77 school year to the Van Buren county department of mental health to help defray the expense of services to students in the South Haven school system.

Hyman Price cast the dissenting vote. Forming the majority were Chairman Donald Dempster and board members Donald Spencer, Mrs. Jane Witte, David Griffin, Mrs. Marjorie Johnston and J. Glenn Sperry.

Several board members expressed a concern over the practice of one tax-supported agency supporting another tax-supported agency. The county agency said it provided 32 consultations last year to South Haven students and their families.

The board approved continuation of its outdoor education program for fifth grade students during the 1976-77 school year by a five to two vote. Mrs. Johnston and Mrs. Witte cast the dissenting votes.

The district's 245 fifth graders will be encouraged to participate in the week-long outdoor program during the first week of October at both Camp Channing and Camp Sears near Pullman. Cost per student will be $23.

Several high school seniors attended the meeting to protest a decision not to conduct commencement this spring out-of-doors. The students have been seeking to have the exercises moved from the high school gymnasium to the Ratcliffe field stadium to allow more people to attend. The event in past years has attracted a capacity audience.

The student concerns were referred back to the high school administration for further consideration.

Seventh District Court Judge Donald M. Goodwillie Jr. was commended in a letter from Gaarde on behalf of the school board for his action in sentencing a high school student who made a false telephoned bomb threat to a stiff term in the county jail.

Gaarde reported that a steering committee has been created to begin planning strategy for presentation of a building bond issue referendum to voters.

Mrs. Donald Olson is chairman of the committee which includes James Buaschke, Mrs. Jack Johnston, Dean Hadden, Edwin Grunst, Mrs. Glen Whitmore and Gaarde.

Several other committees are being formed to coordinate various stages of the project, Gaarde said.

The low bids totaling $45,711 from Gersonde Equipment company of Benton Harbor and Allied Truck Equipment company of Grand Rapids for three 66 passenger buses were approved.

The board approved the salary structure for the new volleyball coach position at five per cent of the base pay for the current year and six per cent beginning next year.

The low $2,830 bid of Vander-Vorts athletic equipment supply company of Chicago for new high jump and pole vault pits was approved.

Several personnel policy revisions were introduced for action at the April meeting. Most significant was the reduction of the mandatory work week for full-time custodial and maintenance employees from 44 to 40 hours.

The board was also asked to look into other areas for possible cutbacks to save money. Percy countered, "What types of programs would you parents be willing to give up to keep Jefferson open?"

At one point, after School Supt. Burton Aldrich confirmed it took $25,000 a year to operate a planetarium at Upton junior high school, Mrs. Sharon Meschke, 1904 South State street, said, "Isn't the welfare of 110 families more important than a frill. The planetarium is not necessary."

One cutback suggestion from the audience was to eliminate (sell) the Washington elementary school and move the students to other schools in the district.

At the close of the meeting Dumke said, "The whole issue is in its infancy. I wouldn't get too excited about it."

Aldrich said a board decision on the closing could come as late as June.

Other board members in attendance were Dr. Joseph Naines, John Pielmeier, Mrs. Beverly Linn and Mrs. Freda Sparks. Other school officials in attendance were Daly L. Macgrayne, principal at Jefferson, and Anthony Belski, principal at Lincoln school, which would receive Jefferson students if the school were closed.

Niles Boys Charged With Robbery Of Niles M.D., 75

South Berrien Bureau

NILES — Two 16-year-old Niles boys were taken into custody here early this morning about two hours after a 75-year-old Niles' physician told police two young men broke into his home and robbed him of $15 at knifepoint.

Niles police said a tracking dog was used to follow the trail of two people from the home of Dr. Fred Henderson, 1119 Weesaw road, Niles, to a house where the two boys were arrested. A knife and $15 were confiscated, police said. The two boys were held on charges of armed robbery, police said.

Dr. Henderson, a former president of the Berrien County Medical Society, and his wife, Mary, were not harmed in the holdup, police said. Mrs. Henderson said she and her husband were awakened about 3:30 a.m. today, when two young men broke into their house. While one of the two remained in a hallway, a second walked into the bedroom, brandished a knife, demanded cash and was handed a wallet containing $15 by Dr. Henderson, she said.

Police said patrolman Larry Brock and tracking dog were able to trace the two from Dr. Henderson's residence about two miles to a house near the corner of Front and Howard streets.

Disaster Aid Requested

From Associated Press

Allegan county is among 29 counties across the middle of Michigan's lower peninsula that Governor William Milliken on Tuesday asked President Ford to declare disaster areas as result of the March 2 ice storm.

Damage amounting to $72.8 million was estimated in Governor Milliken's letter that was to be hand-carried to Chicago by Leo MacNamee, assistant regional director for the Federal Disaster Assistance administration.

He listed $13.3 million in public damage, $18.6 million in agricultural damage, and an estimated $20.9 million in private damage.

In addition, the letter said private utilities suffered about $20 million in damage, though the companies are not eligible for federal disaster aid.

Milliken also said state and local governments have spent or will spend $2.2 million for which they will not be reimbursed under federal programs.

He said the effort needed to handle the situation "is beyond the capabilities of the state and local governments in that funds available to the political subdivisions, individuals and families to repair and restore public and private facilities are either not available or sufficient to cope with the magnitude of this disaster."

If Ford grants the disaster declaration, individuals will be eligible for federal programs such as temporary housing, disaster assistance, individual and family grant programs, food stamps, small Business Administration loans, agricultural loans and public assistance grants.

Watervliet To Get New Christian High School

WATERVLLET — Grace Christian Educational association will announce during its third annual meeting here Friday, March 26, plans for formation of a high school. The meeting is to begin at 7:30 p.m., at the Midway Baptist church on Red Arrow highway in Watervliet, according to Rev. Harry L. Johnson, chairman of association's board of education.

The association already operates a non-denominational school for about 100 students in grades K-7 in the Baptist church education rooms and two portable classrooms outside the church now. Rev. Johnson said he expects ground breaking soon on construction of a K-8 school building to be located in Bainbridge township, on the east side of M-140, about two blocks north of Territorial road.

He said the proposed high school would be housed in portable classrooms that would be moved from Watervliet when the new $250,000 building is completed, and in an extension to the new building. Generally, he said, high school instruction would begin in September, 1977, and would be based on what Rev. Johnson called an Accelerated Christian Education, with high school students progressing at their own pace.

The high school was part of a master plan of school expansion announced by the association at its 1975 annual meeting. Rev. Johnson said further details of the proposed high school will be made available at the March 26 annual meeting.

Other areas to be covered, he said, will include election of three new board members and approval of a proposed 1976-77 school budget of $87,654 (which includes financing for the building program). The school's present budget is $64,350.

NEW VETERINARY HOSPITAL: Dr. Phillip Hecht has built new Hecht Veterinary hospital on US-31 north of Berrien Springs (3700 North St. Joseph avenue). Hecht said 3,200 square foot building sits on slightly over one acre of land. Clinic moved from end of Kephart lane on land formerly owned by Hecht's father, Myron, and recently sold to Muhammad Ali, world heavyweight boxing champion. (Staff photos)

New Buffalo Picks 1st Woman Mayor

NEW BUFFALO — Councilwoman Carol Bond last night was named this city's first woman mayor.

Mrs. Bond, 34, housewife and mother of two sons, was elected to the post by her fellow councilmen during the city's reorganizational meeting. William Van Meer was named mayor pro-tem.

Mrs. Bond was first appointed to the city council in early 1973, replacing Lucian Darin, who had moved from the city. Mrs. Bond was elected to a three-year term to the council a year ago. She and her husband, Ronald, and children, reside at 402 West Clay street.

She replaces former mayor Roland Oselka, who resigned recently to become a Berrien county commissioner.

The council also voted to continue to hold its regular meetings the third Tuesday of each month.

In other news, William Marx, city manager, told the council that a preliminary study of the 1976-77 city budget shows serious financial difficulties for the city. Marx said that in addition to a small tax growth and inflation on municipal supplies, the state and federal laws mandate additional expenses by the city but do not include reimbursement.

The council tabled for further study a request of Gerald Pallas and Edwin Putzke, contractors, to rezone land along Water street and Marx drive from single-family residential to multiple-family residential. Putzke said they plan to build four-unit duplexes in the area, costing between $60,000 and $70,000 apiece.

The pair also requested the split of five lots on Chicago street, between Clay and Washington streets, for the purpose of building single-family residential dwellings. The council turned over both requests to the city planning commission for recommendations at the next regular meeting.

City Atty. Lee Boothby introduced a harbor ordinance which once passed, will provide rules and regulations covering the duties and responsibilities of operators of vessels and motor boats, licensing of charter boats and marine safety.

The council voted not to participate in the annual mayor exchange day this year. New Buffalo was paired with Negaunee, but the council felt that Negaunee, located in the Upper Peninsula, was too far away and the trip would be too costly.

The council approved a request from Darrell Murray, local Easter Seal chairman, to hold a tag day in the city April 10. April 17 was selected as an alternate date in case of rain.

Councilman Keefe was appointed to serve as city representative on the Pine Grove cemetery board and EXAMINATION TIME: Dr. Phillip Hecht, left, owner of Hecht Veterinary hospital, and his associate, Dr. H. M. (Mike) Chaddock, examine cat in one of three examining rooms in new facility. New quarters were opened after hospital was moved from previous quarters.

Clerk Joan Wetshampf was instructed to advertise for members to the city's parks board and planning commission, following letters of resignation from Keefe and Anthony Laurisella. Keefe had served on both boards prior to his recent election to the city council. Laurisella had served on the parks board.

May 1 was designated as beach cleanup day by the council.

During a water board meeting, on the advice of Atty. Boothby, the board voted to amend an agreement between New Buffalo township and the city regarding a proposed 12-inch water line on Marquette drive. The amendment states the township will pay the difference between an 8-inch and 12-inch main within three years of its completion. No time period for payment appeared in the original agreement.

The water board also voted to submit plans and specifications for the Marquette drive water main extension to the state health department for approval.

Thomas Deneau, engineer with G.L. Wightman and Associates, St. Joseph, told the board that such funds from the FTA have all been used for this fiscal year and the city will have to wait until after July 1 before it can apply to borrow money from the FTA for construction of the water mains.

STOCKMAN AIDE: Mrs. Barbara Radewald, Niles, has been appointed Berrien county chairman of Stockman for Congress committee, according to John L. Globensky, general campaign chairman. Mrs. Radewald, long active in GOP politics, is wife of Stanley Radewald, well known fruit and vegetable grower.

Stockman Fund Raiser Banquet Scheduled March 25 At Tosi's

A fund-raising dinner for David Stockman, Republican candidate for Congress, will be held Thursday, March 25, at Tosi's restaurant, Ridge road, Stevensville. The $35 per couple dinner is being sponsored by the Stockman for Congress Committee and Herman Berghoff, owner of Tosi's. The event is scheduled from 6:30 to 10:30 p.m. People who want to make reservations may call Stockman headquarters, 883-5575. Barry Davis, campaign manager, said "Dave Stockman Night at Tosi's will not include speeches or a formal program. We want our friends and supporters to enjoy a fine meal and meet Dave on a relaxed, informal basis as they dine." Davis said the menu will be a complete Tosi dinner with a choice of four entrees. Stockman, of St. Joseph, is the only announced Republican candidate for the congressional seat held by the retiring Edward Hulchinson.

EXTRA MILE AWARD FOR PROFESSOR: Prof. James F. McCarley (right), Albion college economics instructor, was presented the "extra mile award" by his 35 master of business administration students last night at Michigan State university center, 777 Riverview drive, Benton Harbor. First annual award was for "enthusiasm, competence and excellence" as instructor. It also recognized 200-mile round trip weekly from Albion. Making presentation was Herb Streich of Mishawaka, a student at Benton Harbor center. MSU center employs teachers from other colleges. (Staff photo)

St. Joseph Planning Commission Will Get Final Downtown Plan

The St. Joseph city planning commission will hold a special meeting tomorrow to receive the final downtown development plan from the consulting firm of Barton-Aeschman. The report covers long and short range goals, parking suggestions, lighting and traffic flow patterns. The meeting will be at Maud Preston Palenske library, 500 Market street, at 7 p.m. Dick Kiesel, planning commission coordinator, said all interested parties are invited.

Two Students Win National Scholarships

Two southwestern Michigan area high school students have been named among 288 winners of one-time, nonrenewable National Achievement $1,000 scholarships for Outstanding Negro students. Named winners of the $1,000 scholarships were Delbert L. Minisee, a senior at Andrews academy, Berrien Springs, and Bernice C. Lucas, a senior at Covert high school.

Announcement of winners in two of three types of Achievement scholarships, awarded annually to black students was made today by the National Merit Scholarship corporation, which administers the competition.

Winners announced today were in categories of $1,000 one-time, nonrenewable scholarships and renewable corporate-sponsored four-year achievement scholarships. In May, winners of the third category, renewable four-year college or university-sponsored scholarships will be announced.

Auble Selected For Court Post

Leo F. Auble, former superintendent of the Berrien Springs school system, was named interim administrator of Berrien Fifth District court yesterday by Presiding Judge John T. Hammond.

Auble will fill a vacancy created Jan. 31 when Mrs. Mary Dent resigned from the district court post.

Auble is interim administrator because District court is still advertising to fill the post, Hammond explained. Auble will receive a salary of $1,500 a month for his first two months.

After that time the Berrien board of commissioners, who set the salary, could turn the position into a permanent $18,000 a year job, but current advertisements list the salary as "$14,500 minimum."

Last month Auble was named interim chairman of the Berrien Republican party when Carol Stockman was granted a leave of absence to campaign for her husband, Congressional Candidate David Stockman.

At the same time, the commission asked the Michigan Supreme Court to suspend Bennett, 30, pending adjudication of the complaint.

Family Escapes

LAKEVILLE — Three members of the Robert Moss family escaped unharmed early this morning when fire damaged their home here, state police from the New Buffalo post said.

Police said Moss, his wife, and their daughter, were awakened about 2 a.m. when they smelled smoke. All three escaped uninjured from the one-story frame house located at 15189 Lakeshore drive in Chikaming township, police said.

Apparent cause of the blaze was a faulty space heater, according to Fred Gregory, assistant Lakeside fire chief. He said that two main rooms of the structure were gutted by the fire, but a bedroom and bathroom sustained smoke and water damage only. No damage estimate had been made by late this morning, Gregory said.

Police said the house was owned by Mrs. Moss' father, George Robinson, of Lakeside.

Clerk Joan Weishaupf was instructed to advertise for members to the city's parks board and planning commission, following letters of resignation from Keefe and Anthony Laurisella. During a water board meeting, on the advice of Atty. Boothby, the board voted to amend an agreement between New Buffalo township and the city regarding a proposed 12-inch water line on Marquette drive. The amendment states the township will pay the difference between an 8-inch and 12-inch main within three years of its completion. No time period for payment appeared in the original agreement.

The water board also voted to submit plans and specifications for the Marquette drive water main extension to the state health department for approval.

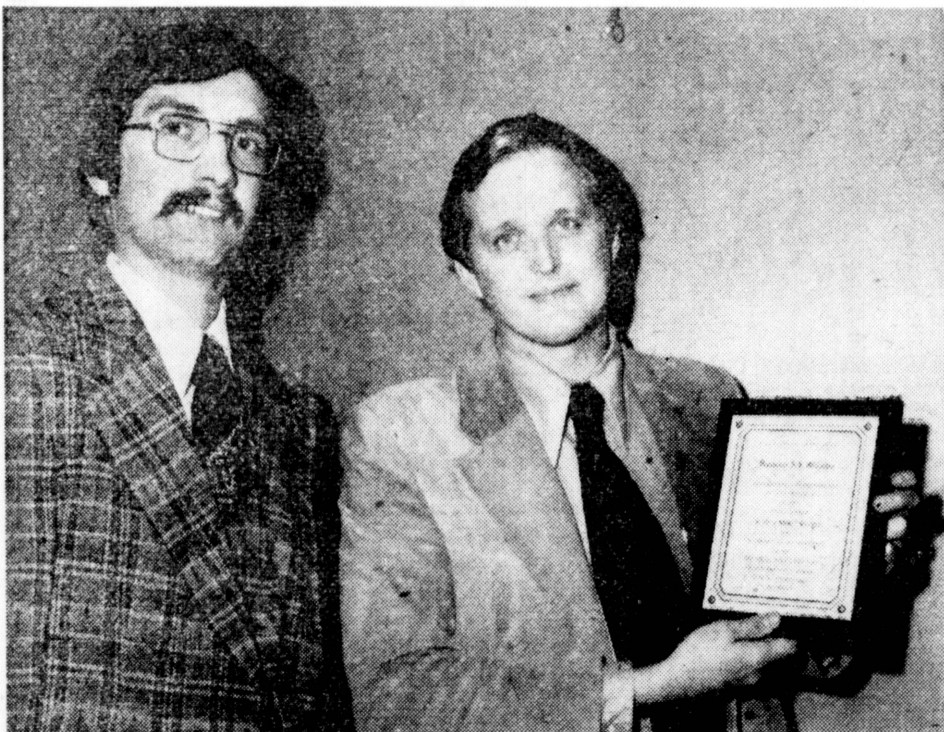

Thomas Deneau, engineer with G.L. Wightman and Associates, St. Joseph, told the board that such funds from the FHA have all been used for this fiscal year and the city will have to wait until after July 1 before it can apply to borrow money from the FHA for construction of the water mains.

Family Escapes

LAKESED — Three members of the Robert Moss family escaped unharmed early this morning when fire damaged their home here, state police from the New Buffalo post said.

Police said Moss, his wife, and their daughter, were awakened about 2 a.m. when they smelled smoke. All three escaped unharmed from the one-story frame house located at 15169 Lakeshore drive in Chikaming township, police said.

Apparent cause of the blaze was a faulty space heater, according to Fred Gregory, assistant Lakeside fire chief. He said that two main rooms of the structure were gutted by the fire, but a bedroom and bathroom sustained smoke and water damage only. No damage estimate had been made by late this morning, Gregory said.

Police said the house was owned by Mrs. Moss' father, George Robinson, of Lakeside.

Auble Selected For Court Post

Lee F. Auble, former superintendent of the Berrien Springs school system, was named interim administrator of Berrien Fifth District court yesterday by Presiding Judge John T. Hammond.

Auble will fill a vacancy created Jan. 31 when Mrs. Mary Dent resigned from the district court post.

Auble is interim administrator because District court is still advertising to fill the post, Hammond explained. Auble will receive a salary of $1,500 a month for his first two months.

After that time the Berrien board of commissioners, who set the salary, could turn the position into a permanent $18,000 a year job, but current advertisements list the salary as "$14,500 minimum."

Last month Auble was named interim chairman of the Berrien Republican party when Carol Stockman was granted a leave of absence to campaign for her husband, Congressional Candidate David Stockman.

Players Expected To Reject Owners' 'Final' Proposal

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The players association's executive board was expected to rubber-stamp today chief negotiator Marvin Miller's denunciation of the baseball owners' "final" proposal to settle the prolonged labor dispute.

Now, not only spring training — delayed by the owners since March 1 — was in danger, but so was the scheduled April 8 start of the season.

"It (the season opening) is getting close and every hour it is more in jeopardy," said American League President Lee MacPhail after Miller tore apart the owners' proposal and charged the baseball executives with a mammoth publicity ploy.

"I'm shocked," said John Gaherin, management's chief negotiator. "He (Miller) has put this thing in some position."

MacPhail said the owners were adamant on what they considered a far-reaching proposal that would change the face of baseball for years to come.

"We won't change a colon, not a semicolon," MacPhail said. And then to emphasize their determination, the owners committee packed its bags and went home.

"Miller will telephone Mr. Gaherin in New York tomorrow (Wednesday) with the Executive Board's decision," said MacPhail, who appeared weary and bleary eyed after six days of fruitless negotiating.

"Will there be a season?" MacPhail was asked. "I don't know," murmured the American League boss.

Gaherin, too, appeared tired and admitted disappointment at the turn of events. He and the owners felt they had whipped together an offer the players couldn't refuse — one that gave the players the controversial one-and-one option rights, but with built-in safeguards to protect balanced competition in baseball.

"Their tone was a tone of rejection," Gaherin said after Tuesday's negotiating session with Miller and some 25 of baseball's brightest stars.

Gaherin was asked if the almost certain rejection by the players' Executive Board meant that talks had collapsed.

"I'm not going to say our offer will be withdrawn. It won't hinder the (future) bargaining."

Both Gaherin and MacPhail emphasized that the owners' 10-page proposal delivered Tuesday was a "take-all, leave-all" proposition.

MacPhail said the Tuesday talks concerned clarification of some of the owners' proposals, not the merits of the offer. They answered questions from the players and from Miller.

Earlier, Miller held a news conference along with the players and chipped away at the owners' proposals.

He said in effect the owners' version of the one-and-one option was a farce.

"The players would not be free agents in the Messersmith sense," Miller said. "Nor has the issue of liability been settled. It's been reduced."

The Messersmith reference was to an arbitrator's decision last December in the case of pitcher Andy Messersmith of the Los Angeles Dodgers. The arbitrator ruled the reserve clause in the standard player contract enabled the player to play one year with a contract, then not sign the following season and play out his option, becoming a free agent the following season.

Under the arbitrator's ruling, subsequently upheld by two federal courts, Messersmith became eligible Tuesday to sell his services to any of the 24 major league clubs.

The owners, in their proposal, offered a one-and-one option for the next several years, but they added that free agents could deal only with a maximum of eight clubs, selected in the inverse order of the previous season's standings. If the eight clubs pass, then the player could try and sell himself to the rest of the teams.

"It's a new kind of free agent draft," said Miller. "Messersmith is free to all 24 clubs, the other players with a maximum of eight."

Then, Miller turned his guns on Commissioner Bowie Kuhn. Miller pointed out that Kuhn had promised to open the spring training camps if the commissioner felt progress was being made in the negotiations.

"I think progress has been made," Miller said. "They (the owners) have come a distance toward our proposal. This is progress."

Miller added, "Now I'm wondering if this is progress. Obviously, Kuhn doesn't. The camps are still closed."

Miller contended the owners are concentrating more on public opinion than negotiations.

"Always that is a part of collective bargaining, but they've gone overboard," Miller said.

Miller said he had promised to present the proposal to the association's Executive Board but said he would do so with a recommendation that the board reject the offer.

"This offer is peculiar," said Miller. "Because I've never seen a proposed agreement that has a raft of matters still to be discussed, some of which have never been negotiated."

Miller said there were an awful lot of "contract hawks" in the agreement. He eluded that the owners wanted a four-year agreement but with the unilateral right to reopen after two years.

Miller said he had no doubt the owners' proposal would be defeated by the executive board.

"I have a reading from the players that they are opposed to it in its present form," Miller explained. "Personally, I will recommend rejection."

Tom Seaver, New York Mets' pitching star and a negotiator, said the players are of the same mind as Miller. "Marvin said it well," Seaver advised.

Many of the players appealed to Kuhn to use his authority to open the training camps in the best interests of baseball.

During the long day of talk, talk, talk, someone even got in a lick for the guy who in the long haul will pay for the final settlement — the fan.

"What shall we tell the fans?" a reporter asked MacPhail.

"Tell them, don't give up on us," MacPhail replied.

Stolz Quits, Ganakas Yanked At MSU

Head Coach Latest Victim Of Football Problems

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Denny Stolz resigned as head football coach at Michigan State University, the most recent and highest ranking victim of the investigation of MSU's football program.

Stolz, head coach for three years, was asked to resign last weekend by university President Clifton Wharton after Wharton met with the school's board of trustees. The resignation of former athletic director Burt Smith has also been accepted.

Unlike Stolz, Smith has tenure at the university and school officials are negotiating with him "equitable arrangements leading to his termination or retirement," Wharton said.

Wharton said the decision to ask Stolz, 42, to resign was the result of new findings of a special university committee investigating the football program. The NCAA has placed MSU on three years probation after determining 34 violations, mostly in recruiting.

Wharton would not reveal what the committee found, however, and Stolz indicated he didn't know either. But Wharton said the information is being shared with the Big Ten, which is also probing the matter.

Wharton said the remaining two years on Stolz' $29,000 contract would be honored. Seven assistant coaches have just had their contracts renewed for one year.

"No one relished seeing two individuals penalized in this fashion for actions they may well have felt were generally accepted in intercollegiate athletics and were in the best interests of a strong athletic program," Wharton said.

He said the university committee felt Stolz "inherited a situation in which there were strong suspicions of improprieties and that he took vigorous corrective steps. Mr. Smith has devoted many loyal years to the university and I am sure he believed he was acting in the interests of a strong competitive program," Wharton said.

"However, in the wake of the recent NCAA investigation and penalties against Michigan State University, we cannot condone or overlook violations of the spirit or the letter of university or conference rules."

"If we are to restore unquestioned integrity to Michigan State University athletics, we have no choice but to rebuild our athletic program from the top down," Wharton concluded.

Stolz, in his resignation letter to Wharton, defended his conduct over the past three years.

"I have not, either in thought or deed, consciously done anything of which I am ashamed or believe not in the interests of Michigan State University," he said.

But, he said, "I have concluded the best interest of all parties would be best served by adhering to your request."

Stolz said there was a sound MSU athletic base for the future, and that players had the right to compete "without any longer being embroiled in rumor, speculation, innuendo and controversy."

GUS GANAKAS

State Cage Coach 'Very Surprised'

By SUSAN AGER
Associated Press Writer
EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gus Ganakas has been yanked from his job as head basketball coach at Michigan State University, the school announced Tuesday to the surprise of both Ganakas and fans.

Head coach since 1969, Ganakas said afterwards he was "very surprised" by the move.

"It's the perils of this business. I was confident we had a good year, and that we should have been rewarded," said Ganakas, who led the team to a 14-13 overall record this year, and a fourth place spot in the Big Ten Conference.

Instead, MSU President Clifton Wharton said Ganakas would be reassigned to new duties that have not yet been chosen. He gave no reason for his decision.

"Coach Ganakas has devoted himself fully to the basketball program, and we can all be proud of the team's strong finish this past season," said Wharton, who two months ago took direction of the school's athletic program into his own hands.

Ganakas' contract was extended by a year last summer, dispelling rumors early last year that he would be fired from the coaching job.

Wharton said Tuesday the extension "was with the understanding that the situation would be reviewed at the conclusion of the season."

Ganakas, 49, praised his team and staff Tuesday "for the achievements accomplished; considering the resources available."

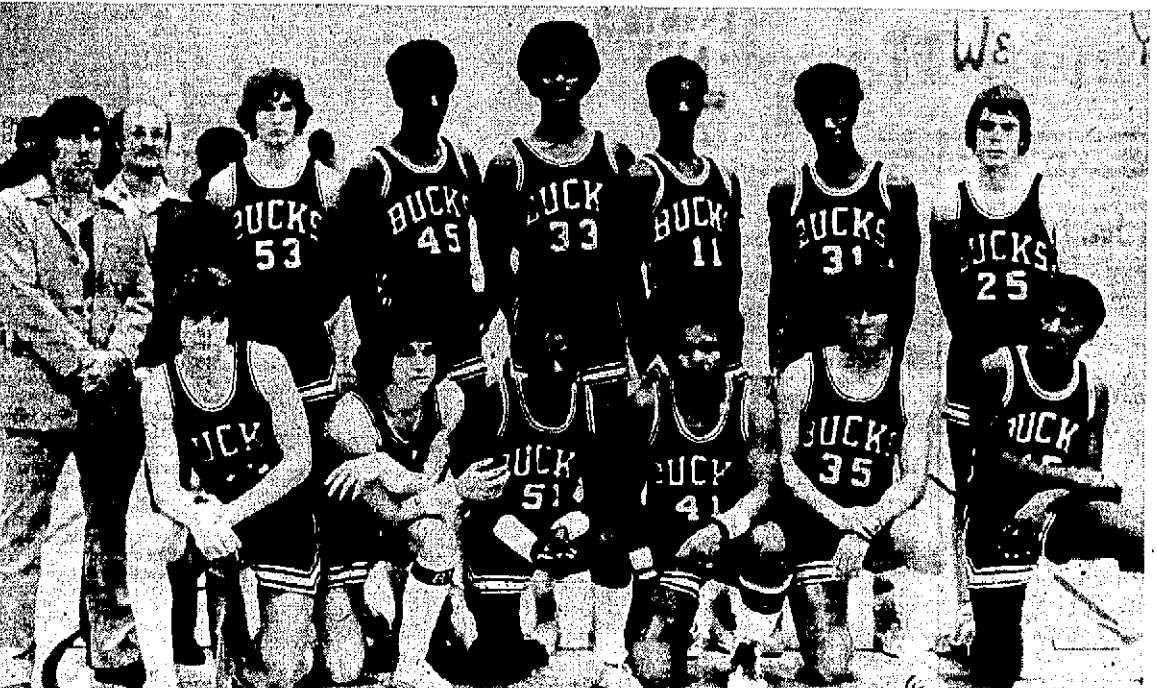

Ganakas was the center of a controversy in January 1975, when all the team's black varsity players staged a one-game boycott. In May, the team's three white players decided not to return to MSU this past September.

The relationship between Ganakas and his team never fully healed, observers have said, though both Ganakas and players publicly said there was no friction. The team ended up 14-13 overall this year, and 10-8 in the Big Ten to finish fourth.

But crowds at basketball games continued to slump.

Overall, Ganakas' seven-year record at MSU was 89-84, not impressive. His best year was 1974-75 when the team marked a 17-8 season, the best for MSU's eagers since the mid-1960s.

Before being named head coach at MSU, Ganakas coached the East Lansing High School team for 13 years, then headed an MSU fund that provides financial aid to athletes.

Giant-Killer Shelby Eyes Upset Of Bucks

Can Shelby slow down the Buchanan express?

That may be literally what the Tigers try to do Thursday when they collide with the unbeaten and top-ranked Bucks in the Class C quarterfinals at Middleville-Thornapple Kellogg high school.

The 7:30 p.m. game is already sold out.

Buchanan puts its 25-0 record and No. 1 ranking on the line against Shelby. The Bucks have not won a quarterfinal game since 1955 when they edged Lansing St. Mary's 56-52 and advanced all the way to the state finals before losing to River Rouge.

Shelby brings a 20-5 record and nine-game winning streak into the game and has not exactly taken an easy road to the quarterfinals. The Tigers knocked off two Class C powers, Byron Center and White Cloud, last week to win their first regional since 1972. The last time Shelby won a regional, the Tigers went on to win the state championship.

"They're a very disciplined ballclub," Buchanan coach Bill Wilson says. "They do the thing which will complement each other. They're a very good team."

Shelby came through with two different styles of play in its two wins last week, using a strong running game to stun previously unbeaten Byron Center 81-67 and then a slow-down in take care of White Cloud 53-39.

In the White Cloud game, Shelby grabbed a 27-18 halftime lead and then went to a stall in the second half to put away the win. The Tigers may try to do the same thing to Buchanan if they can get an early lead.

The Tigers' strength lies in their guards, 5-10 senior Gary Gosselin and 5-9 senior Rick Zoulek. Wilson calls Gosselin "as good a guard as we're going to see."

Gosselin, a speedy three-year starter, has used brilliant outside shooting to average more than 22 points per game this year. Relying mostly on 15-foot jump shots, Gosselin has swished 47 per cent of his shots from the floor and added 88 per cent from the free throw line. Zoulek adds 10 points per game to the Tiger attack.

The Shelby front line consists of 6-3 sophomore center Brian Beckman (8.0) and senior forwards Jeff Alexander (9.5) and Tim Beckman (18.0). Alexander stands 6-2 and Beckman 6-0.

"We played our best four quarters of the year against Byron Center and played very well against White Cloud," Shelby coach Jim Tate says.

"But Buchanan is very big and deserves all the rating they've got. We'll have to play a great game to beat them."

"Our kids are pretty confident, though. We keep comparing them to Muskegon Heights. We're convinced that they're not as good as Muskegon Heights and we were able to play with Heights. We think we can play with Buchanan, too."

Buchanan will probably make one lineup change for Thursday's game, going with Kevin Vanderbush at guard instead of Gary Jones.

"Kevin came off the bench against Decatur last Saturday and not only did the job offensively but also played good defense," Wilson says. "He played with great intensity and that's what I've been waiting for. He really hustled and worked hard and things started to happen for him."

Joining Kevin will be the four Buchanan double-figure scorers, 6-8 Ken Garrett (22.4), 6-5 Mike Busby (13.9), 6-4 Gerald Busby (11.0) and 6-2 Walt Vanderbush (12.0).

In tournament play Buchanan is averaging 83.4 points, while giving up just 56.8. The Bucks are blistering the nets at a 92 per cent shooting pace from the floor and have outscored every opponent this season.

"We expect Shelby to try and control the tempo like they did against White Cloud," Wilson notes. "They have good outside shooting so we're going to have to be ready. However if we get a lead we might just do the same thing. I would like to see how they react to our four-corner offense."

"I think it will be a real interesting game, the type that true basketball fans will really enjoy."

Thursday's winner will face the winner of the Pontiac Catholic - Stockbridge game in Saturday's semifinals at the Lansing Civic Center. Both Pontiac Catholic and Stockbridge sport 19-6 records, the former boasting a seven-game winning streak and the latter an 11-game string.

Stockbridge is paced by 6-2 senior center Milt Campbell, who is scoring 16 points per game. Oddly enough, the last time the Panthers advanced this far in the tournament, their top scorer was Milt's brother Jesse. Jesse Campbell, an All-State, led Stockbridge to the state finals before it lost to — you guessed it — Shelby.

In the White Cloud game, Shelby grabbed a 27-18 halftime lead and then went to a stall in the second half to put away the win. The Tigers may try to do the same thing to Buchanan if they can get an early lead.

The Tigers' strength lies in their guards, 5-10 senior Gary Gosselin and 5-9 senior Rick Zoulek. Wilson calls Gosselin "as good a guard as we're going to see."

Gosselin, a speedy three-year starter, has used brilliant outside shooting to average more than 22 points per game this year. Relying mostly on 15-foot jump shots, Gosselin has swished 47 per cent of his shots from the floor and added 86 per cent from the free throw line. Zoulek adds 10 points per game to the Tigers attack.

The Shelby front line consists of 6-3 sophomore center Brian Beckman (8.0) and senior forwards Jeff Alexander (9.5) and Tom Beckman (18.0). Alexander stands 6-2 and Beckman 6-0.

"We played our best four quarters of the year against Byron Center and played very well against White Cloud," Shelby coach Jim Tate says.

"But Buchanan is very big and deserves all the rating they've got. We'll have to play a great game to beat them."

"Our kids are pretty confident, though. We keep comparing them to Muskegon Heights. We're convinced that they're not as good as Muskegon Heights and we were able to play with Heights. We think we can play with Buchanan, too."

Buchanan will probably make one lineup change for Thursday's game, going with Kevin Vanderbush at guard instead of Gary Jones.

"Kevin came off the bench against Decatur last Saturday and not only did the job offensively but also played good defense," Wilson says. "He played with great intensity and that's what I've been waiting for. He really hustled and worked hard and things started to happen for him."

Joining Kevin will be the four Buchanan double figure scorers, 6-6 Ken Garrett (22.4), 6-5 Mike Busby (13.9), 6-4 Gerald Busby (11.0) and 6-2 Walt Vanderbush (12.6).

In tournament play Buchanan is averaging 83.4 points, while giving up just 56.8. The Bucks are blistering the nets at a 52 per cent shooting pace from the floor and have outrebounded every opponent this season.

"We expect Shelby to try and control the tempo like they did against White Cloud," Wilson notes. "They have good outside shooting so we're going to have to be ready. However if we get a lead we might just do the same thing. I would like to see how they react to our four-corner offense."

"I think it will be a real interesting game, the type that true basketball fans will really enjoy."

Thursday's winner will face the winner of the Pontiac Catholic - Stockbridge game in Saturday's semifinals at the Lansing Civic Center. Both

Pontiac Catholic and Stockbridge sport 19-6 records, the former boasting a seven-game winning streak and the latter an 11-game string.

Stockbridge is paced by 6-2 senior center Milt Campbell, who is scoring 16 points per game. Oddly enough, the last time the Panthers advanced this far in the tournament, their top scorer was Milt's brother Jesse. Jesse Campbell, an All-Stater, led Stockbridge to the state finals before it lost to — you guessed it — Shelby.

Gaels Get Another Crack At Crusaders

Gallen will be getting a second chance Thursday night in the Class D quarterfinals at Marshall.

The Gaels will take on tournament-tough Detroit East Catholic at 7:30 p.m. in a rematch of the 1975 Marshall quarter-finals.

Last March the Gaels were a bit awe-struck by the Crusaders, top-ranked and 21-4 at the time, and dropped a 70-54 decision.

This season the Detroit school is only 13-10 and nowhere to be found in the state rankings but that is deceiving since the Crusaders have played several A, B and C schools and have completely demolished D competition in the tournaments.

"Obviously, they're pretty tough," voices Gallen coach Mike Heckathorn, who was home with a sore throat Tuesday. "But our people who scouted them said they're not as impressive as last year."

"Last year I think the kids were in awe of them early in the game and we got way behind. I don't think we face that problem this year...we know what to expect and we know they are beatable. The kids think they can play with anybody in the state."

"I just told the kids Monday in practice that I'm glad we're getting another chance to play them. We want to show them we have a fine basketball team on this side of the state."

Gallen (21-3) will be trying to stop an almost unbelievable East Catholic tournament point machine. The Crusaders have averaged 98.4 points in five tournament games and have beaten their foes by an average of 47.6 points. Detroit broke the 100-point barrier in all three of its district games, including an 126-24 mauling of Troy Bethany Christian in its opener. East Catholic handled No. 2 ranked Ann Arbor St. Thomas 75-60 last Thursday to win its regional.

"We're just running more in the tournaments," states Catholic coach Dave Soules, whose Crusaders lost to M.I. Pleasant Sacred Heart 56-54 in the semi-finals last March. "I think Koozy (Don) is an excellent player and Luther (Dale) is good, too, although he didn't have a good game Friday. I think they have an excellent basketball team."

Brothers Edgar and Nikito Merchant form a hit act at guard with Edgar averaging 18 points and Nikito 16. East Catholic employs a double post with Ted Anderson (8-6) and Terry Triplett (8-6). Donnell Williams (6-1) rounds out the probable starters. The Crusaders have a solid bench with cousins Donald and Woodrow Bell and freshman Anthony Baker (6-6) supplying the punch.

"They like to get the ball down the floor as quickly as possible and shoot off the fast break," says Heckathorn, 77-37 in five years at Gallen. "The key to their whole offense is getting the ball out and running. Obviously our job is not let our guards get beat, deep and not give away easy baskets...make them work for their baskets."

"And on the boards we'll concentrate on getting Kuntz (Rick) and Busher (Rick) to block out and give Koozy (Don) a chance to get rebounds."

Gallen, which supports the area's best defense (53.1), could go to its "big" lineup with Busher (5-11) moving to guard from forward and Koozy (6-2) and Rick (6-4) and Mike Kuntz (6-1) up front.

The Gaels, averaging 69.5 in four tournament tilts, have three players in double figures for the season with Koozy at 18.5, Luther 14.5 and Busher 10.5. Craig Schau is at 7.8, Rick Kuntz 5.1 and Mike Kuntz 4.7. Mike Kuntz has given the Gaels a big lift off the bench in the tournament games, scoring 18 points. Busher is also shining in tournament play with a 14.3 average.

Luther tallied 18 points, Koozy 13 and Schau 12 in last year's loss to the Crusaders.

Should Gallen turn back Catholic, the Gaels would meet the winner of Thursday night's Detroit DePue-Power contest Saturday at 3 p.m. at the Lansing Civic Center. DePue-Power ended as the top-rated team in the final Class D poll.

The last time Gallen won a quarterfinal game was 1964 when the Gaels got by Addison 86-85. Gallen then lost to Byron Center 67-61 in the semifinals. The coach for Gallen in 1964 was Dave Hallgren, who has coached Nequaunee to the Class C quarterfinals this year with a 23-1 record.

Like last year's quarterfinal game, a huge contingent of Gaels followers are expected to fill the Marshall gym.

Crimson Tide Center Faces All-American Benson

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
Leon Douglas, who overwhelmed a second-team All-American last time out, gets a chance to take on No. 1 Thursday night.

Douglas, the 6-foot-10 senior of sixth-ranked Alabama, goes against first-team All-American Kent Benson in the key matchup as the Crimson Tide meets unbeaten and top-rated Indiana in a Midwest Regional semifinal of the NCAA basketball tournament at Baton Rouge, La.

"I'm looking forward to Indiana," said Douglas, who was the catalyst in Alabama's 70-48 upset of North Carolina last Saturday, scoring 35 points and grabbing 17 rebounds against "The Heels" center Mitch Kupchak. "I like a challenge. I'd rather play against the best."

"All-American just doesn't bother me," added Douglas, a third-team All-American. "I just want to play a game — and win."

Douglas may have a slight edge in quickness over Benson, a 6-foot-11 junior, although the Indiana center appears to be a bit more physical. "I feel I have to outquick my opponents," said Douglas. "My speed is my best asset."

"Both coaches, meanwhile, are approaching the game apprehensively. We will be playing a truly outstanding basketball team, well-coached and with exceptional ability," said Indiana's Bobby Knight. "Leon Douglas is the finest center we will have faced, and he has teammates who complement his abilities and give the team many dimensions. It is a unique team in that it has great quickness without sacrificing size and strength."

"We are greatly impressed by them. We will have to play our very best to maintain a chance to win."

And that's the favorite talking.

C.M. Newton, coach of underdog Alabama, said, "To have gone unbeaten over the past two regular seasons like Indiana has done is mind-boggling. But if we do our part, it will be a good game."

In the other Midwest Regional semifinal, second-ranked Marquette puts its 22-game winning streak on the line against Western Michigan.

Defending champion UCLA, which won the national title 10 of the past 12 years under John Wooden, will have a home-court advantage in the West Regional as it goes for its first crown under Coach Gene Bartow. The fifth-ranked Bruins will meet Pepperdine in one semifinal of the West Regional at Pauley Pavilion, while third-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas, the highest scoring team in the nation, will oppose Arizona.

Fourth-ranked Rutgers, which struggled to a one-point victory over Princeton in the first round of the NCAA tournament, will try to stretch its season record to 30-0 against Connecticut in an East Regional semifinal at Greensboro, N.C. DePaul meets Villi in the other game.

Michigan and Notre Dame, both of whom posted first-round victories on baskets in the closing seconds, will meet in a Midwest Regional semifinal at Louisville, Missouri and Texas Tech collide in the other pairing.

The regional semifinal winners meet Saturday to determine the final four, who will battle for the national title in Philadelphia March 27 and 28.

'Mr. Inside' Keeps Kentucky In NIT

NEW YORK (AP) — Kentucky's game is inside basketball and for a while, the Wildcats didn't have any "Mr. Inside" to play it.

Kentucky miscegenator Mike Phillips sprained his right foot and had to leave in the first half of Tuesday night's National Invitation Tournament game with Kansas State.

Some tape fixed it and then Phillips fixed Kansas State in the second half, providing the proper remedy for Kentucky's 81-78 quarter-final victory.

"We took Kansas State inside," said Phillips. "It's a better percentage shot. I thought if we did that, beat them inside, that we'd eventually wear them out."

Phillips, who had scored but four points in the first half, poured in 13 once entering the contest with seven minutes gone in the second half, and led the Wildcats back from a 63-51 deficit.

"Phillips had an ankle injury and I thought we could sneak by without him in the second half," said Kentucky Coach Joe Hall. "I almost waited too long once I decided to put him back in. I made sure that the other players would get the ball to him."

Kentucky advanced to Thursday night's semifinals against Providence, which defeated Louisville 73-67 in the opener of a doubleheader Tuesday night. North Carolina State and surprising North Carolina-Charlotte, who won quarterfinal games Monday night, will play in the other semifinal game.

As soon as Phillips came into the game, he was a help to his team. Within a minute, he had his first basket and by the time he was finished scoring, Kentucky had a 76-70 lead with 5:11 in play. James Lee later hit two free throws with 1:18 remaining to provide the Wildcats of the Southeastern Conference with an 80-74 lead and their eventual winning points.

Bruce Campbell and Bill Eason each hit four big foul shots in the last three minutes to lead Providence over Louisville. The Cardinals had scored four straight points and moved within 54-57 of the Friars at the 4:18 mark before the team from New England used the foul shot to wrap up the tense game.

Gaels Get Another Crack At Crusaders

Galen will be getting a second chance Thursday night in the Class D quarterfinals at Marshall.

The Gaels will take on tournament-tough Detroit East Catholic at 7:30 p.m. in a rematch of the 1975 Marshall quarter-finals.

Last March the Gaels were a bit awe-struck by the Crusaders, top-ranked and 21-4 at the time, and dropped a 70-54 decision.

Should Galien turn back Catholic, the Gaels would meet the winner of Thursday night's Detroit DePorres-Fowler contest Saturday at 3 p.m. at the Lansing Civic Center. DePorres ended as the top-rated team in the final Class D poll.

The last time Galien won a quarterfinal game was 1964 when the Gaels got by Addison 96-95. Galien then lost to Byron Center 67-61 in the semifinals. The coach for Galien in 1964 was Dave Hallgren, who has coached Negaunee to the Class C quarterfinals this year with a 23-1 record.

Like last year's quarterfinal game, a huge contingent of Gael followers are expected to fill the Marshall gym.

players would get the ball to them."

Kentucky advanced to Thursday night's semifinals against Providence, which defeated Louisville 73-67 in the opener of a doubleheader Tuesday night. North Carolina State and surprising North Carolina-Charlotte, who won quarterfinal games Monday night, will play in the other semifinal game.

As soon as Phillips came into the game, he was a help to his team. Within a minute, he had his first basket and by the time he was finished scoring, Kentucky had a 76-70 lead with 5:10 to play. James Lee later hit two free throws with 1:18 remaining to provide the Wildcats of the Southeastern Conference with an 80-74 lead and their eventual winning points.

Bruce Campbell and Bill Eason each hit four big foul shots in the last three minutes to lead Providence over Louisville. The Cardinals had scored four straight points and moved within 59-57 of the Friars at the 4:18 mark before the team from New England used the foul shot to wrap up the tense game.

Alabama's Douglas Takes On No. 1 Crimson Tide Center Faces All-American Benson

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
Leon Douglas, who overwhelmed a second-team All-American last time out, gets a chance to take on No. 1 Thursday night.

Douglas, the 6-foot-10 senior of sixth-ranked Alabama, goes against first-team All-American Kent Benson in the key matchup as the Crimson Tide meets unbeaten and top-rated Indiana in a Midwest Regional semifinal of the NCAA basketball tournament at Baton Rouge, La.

"I'm looking forward to Indiana," said Douglas, who was the catalyst in Alabama's 79-44 upset of North Carolina last Saturday, scoring 35 points and grabbing 17 rebounds against Tar Heels center Mitch Kupchak. "I like a challenge. I'd rather play against the best."

"All-American stuff doesn't bother me," added Douglas, a third-team All-American. "I just want to play a game — and win."

Douglas may have a slight edge in quickness over Benson, a 6-foot-11 junior, although the Indiana center appears to be a bit more physical. "I feel I have to outkick my opponents," said Douglas. "My speed is my best asset."

Both coaches, meanwhile, are approaching the game apprehensively. "We will be playing a truly outstanding basketball team, well-coached and with exceptional ability," said Indiana's Bobby Knight. "Leon Douglas is the finest center we will have faced, and he has teammates who complement his abilities and give the team many dimensions. It is a unique team in that it has great quickness without sacrificing size and strength."

"We are greatly impressed by them. We will have to play our

'Mr. Inside' Keeps Kentucky In NIT

NEW YORK (AP) — Kentucky's game is inside basketball and for a while, the Wildcats didn't have any "Mr. Inside" to play it.

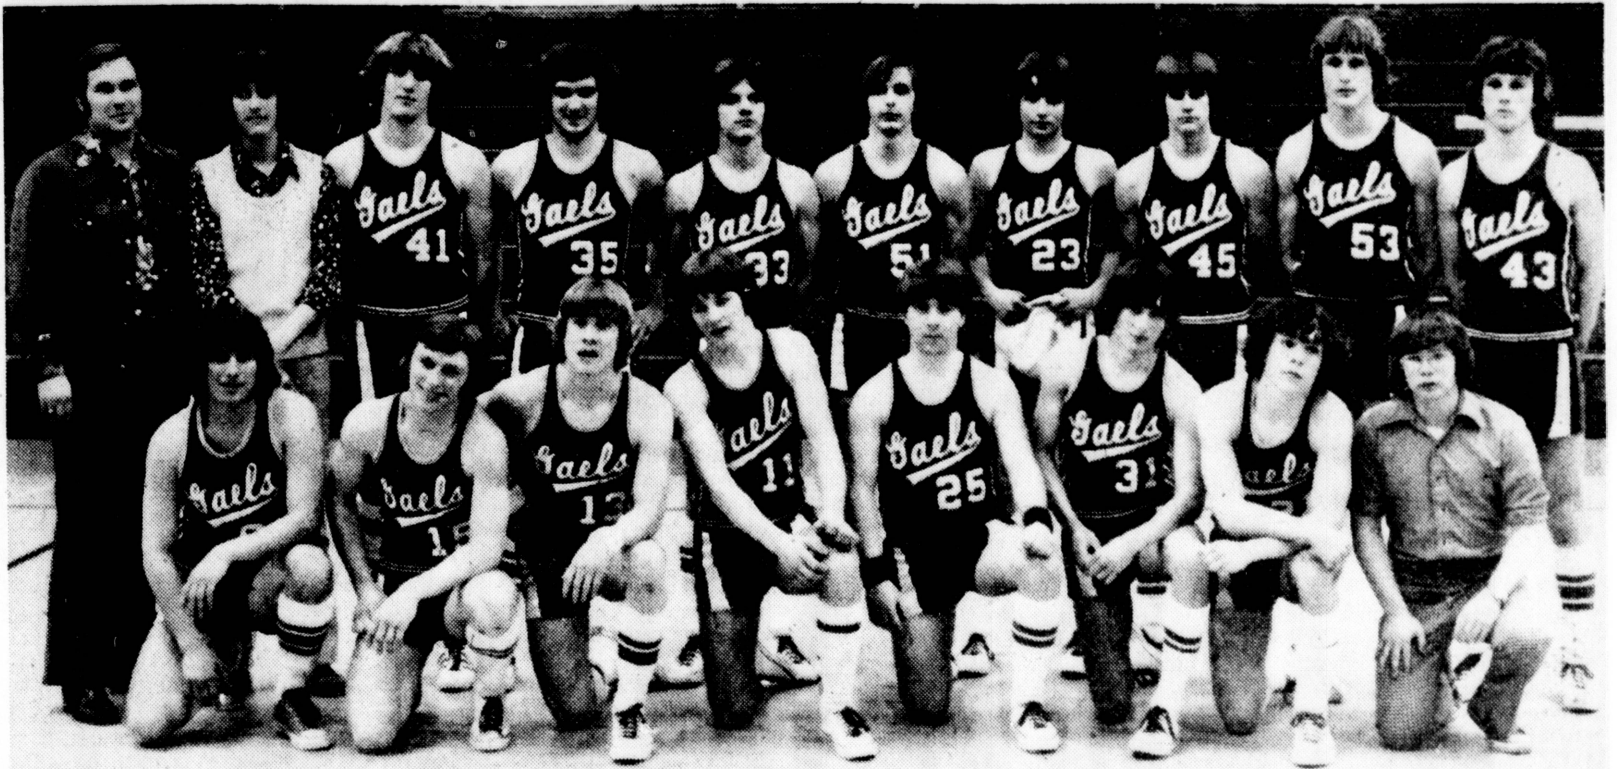

Kentucky muscleman Mike Phillips sprained his right foot and had to leave in the first half of Tuesday night's National Invitation Tournament game with Kansas State.

Some tape fixed it and then Phillips fixed Kansas State in the second half, providing the proper remedy for Kentucky's 81-78 quarter-final victory.

"We took Kansas State inside," said Phillips. "It's a better percentage shot. I thought if we did that, beat them inside, that we'd eventually wear them out."

Phillips, who had scored but four points in the first half, poured in 13 once entering the contest with seven minutes gone in the second half, and led the Wildcats back from a 63-51 deficit.

"Phillips had an ankle injury and I thought we could sneak by without him in the second half," said Kentucky Coach Joe Hall. "I almost waited too long once I decided to put him back in. I made sure that the other

Dumping Bucks Highlight Stolz Ends Spartan Football Career

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The highlight of Denny Stolz' abbreviated coaching career at Michigan State came late in a November afternoon in 1974 when a chunky fullback named Levi Jackson raced 88 yards down the MSU sideline to beat Ohio State. Stolz was carried off the field that day, having stunned the mighty Buckeyes and — however briefly — returned the Spartans to the national football spotlight.

The memory of that golden victory has been tarnished by the events of the past year, and on Tuesday Stolz was in seclusion, refusing to talk about his forced resignation.

His quitting has capped the sorry unearthings of wrongdoing in MSU's football program, and while the investigation goes on and more housecleaning may follow, little can match the toppling of the head coach.

Stolz was never formally found guilty of anything, and never admitted any wrongdoing. The additional information which led to the request for his resignation remains secret.

Stolz' departure leaves the Spartan program in a shambles, with only an assistant staff on hand for the start of spring practice this month. There is no strong man upstairs to hold things together — new athletic director Joseph Kearney starts next month and must immediately face finding a new coach.

The effects of the continued shakeup at Michigan State — two head coaches, an assistant coach, an athletic director, a university vice president all either dumped or moved aside — on the players themselves and new recruits can only be imagined. Meanwhile, the fate of the department is in the hands of President Clifton Wharton, not a football fan and very closed-mouthed about who did what wrong.

Stolz took the MSU reins from Duffy Daugherty as a man who would bring the Spartans back to national prominence. He inherited a sorry crew his first year, but managed to emerge almost even at 5-6 with his conservative, defense-oriented football.

Next year was the banner year, as the Spartans sneaked up to finish just half a game out of the Big Ten lead. Stolz was named Big Ten coach of the year, and the upset of Ohio State and the Spartans' 7-3 record led to national ranking and predictions of conference contention for 1975.

But last year was an unending series of disappointments, from the NCAA probe clouding the entire program to the Spartans' lackluster play and 7-4 record. Many who had praised Stolz' style in winning now criticized his lack of flair in planning the MSU attack.

Washington's James Says MSU Rumor 'News To Me'

SEATTLE (AP) — Denny James says a report that Michigan State University was considering him as football coach "is news to me...I have had no discussions...I cannot picture myself leaving the University of Washington."

The Lansing State Journal reported Tuesday it had learned that James, who has just concluded his first season at Washington, tentatively has been selected to succeed Denny Stolz, head coach for three years.

Stolz resigned Tuesday as MSU coach in light of new evidence of football irregularities at the school, MSU President Clifton R. Wharton said.

Shortly before Stolz' resignation was announced, James told The Seattle Times by telephone from Canton, Ohio:

"It's news to me that the job is open there. I have had no discussions with anybody there. I cannot picture myself leaving the University of Washington."

James said he had expressed similar sentiments to Joe Kearney, departing Washington athletic director who will become Michigan State's AD April 1.

James was in Ohio for the wedding of his daughter. He was previously coach at Kent State.

Gophers Advance Without Playoff

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — The University of Minnesota will go to the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) hockey tournament without further playoff competition.

The NCAA Selection Committee decided Tuesday to award the tournament berth to Minnesota rather than schedule a one-game playoff between the Gophers and St. Louis University.

A Minnesota spokesman said the committee gave no comment on the reasons for its decision. He noted, however, that the Gophers have defeated St. Louis four times this season.

The Gophers thought Sunday they had clinched a berth as the second Western Collegiate Hockey Association (WCHA) team in the NCAA tournament when they defeated Michigan

State 7-6 in three overtimes.

However, the NCAA had stated before the season that the second WCHA team might have to play the winner of the Central Collegiate Hockey Association (CCHA) playoff. That turned out to be St. Louis.

White Sox Among Teams Bidding For Messersmith

From Associated Press
The Andy Messersmith auction is expected to heat up today as more major league clubs make their pitch for the free agent who won 39 games for the Los Angeles Dodgers the past two seasons.

The Chicago White Sox and St. Louis Cardinals phoned their offers for Messersmith's services to the 30-year-old right-hander's agent, Herb Osmond, on Tuesday, while Ted Turner, the new owner of the Atlanta Braves, tendered his bid personally.

The San Diego Padres have said they plan to make an offer and a host of others are expected to follow suit in the auction which could bring back memories of last winter's Cal-fish Hunter sweepstakes, won by the New York Yankees for $3.75 million.

"I anticipate a lot of action," Osmond told The Associated Press from his offices in Newport Beach, Calif. "Andy's still a hell of a pitcher, and he's the only free agent around right now. Some teams could obviously use him."

One which could use him but apparently won't get the chance is Los Angeles, which refused to grant Messersmith's request for a no-trade clause a year ago. He played the 1975 season without signing a contract and over the winter was ruled a free agent by a panel which included arbitrator Peter Seitz. That decision was twice upheld in the courts, setting the stage for the bidding which began this week.

Silky Sullivan Guest Of Honor

ALBANY, Calif. (AP) — Silky Sullivan, a thoroughbred whose stretch runs thrilled California racing fans in the late 1950s, will be the St. Patrick's Day guest of honor today at Golden Gate Fields.

The handsome and still frisky copper-colored stallion will be 21 this year. He will promenade in the winner's circle and receive a birthday gift. Later the Silky Sullivan Handicap, a $25,000 mile race for 3-year-olds, will be run in his honor.

Silky Sullivan's best known feat was to come from 40 lengths behind to win the 1958 Santa Anita Derby under the urging of Bill Shoemaker.

A Minnesota spokesman said the committee gave no comment on the reasons for its decision. He noted, however, that the Gophers have defeated St. Louis four times this season.

The Gophers thought Sunday they had clinched a berth as the second Western Collegiate Hockey Association (WCHA) team in the NCAA tournament when they defeated Michigan

State 7-6 in three overtimes.

However, the NCAA had stated before the season that the second WCHA team might have to play the winner of the Central Collegiate Hockey Association (CCHA) playoff. That turned out to be St. Louis.

White Sox Among Teams Bidding For Messersmith

From Associated Press

The Andy Messersmith auction is expected to heat up today as more major league clubs make their pitch for the free agent who won 39 games for the Los Angeles Dodgers the past two seasons.

The Chicago White Sox and St. Louis Cardinals phoned their offers for Messersmith's services to the 30-year-old right-hander's agent, Herb Osmond, on Tuesday, while Ted Turner, the new owner of the Atlanta Braves, tendered his bid personally.

The San Diego Padres have said they plan to make an offer and a host of others are expected to follow suit in the auction which could bring back memories of last winter's Catfish Hunter sweepstakes, won by the New York Yankees for $3.75 million.

"I anticipate a lot of action," Osmond told The Associated Press from his offices in Newport Beach, Calif. "Andy's still a hell of a pitcher, and he's the only free agent around right now. Some teams could obviously use him."

One which could use him but apparently won't get the chance is Los Angeles, which refused to grant Messersmith's request for a no-trade clause a year ago. He played the 1975 season without signing a contract and over the winter was ruled a free agent by a panel which included arbitrator Peter Seitz. That decision was twice upheld in the courts, setting the stage for the bidding which began this week.

The Dodgers had offered Messersmith a three-year, $500,000 contract in an attempt to retain his services, but the pitching ace turned them down. Asked whether Los Angeles stood a chance in the current talks, Osmond replied, "I doubt it."

Osmond would not be specific about what it will take to get Messersmith's signature on a contract.

"We've got a few things that basically we'd like, involving taxes and that sort of stuff," he said. "We'll listen to what they have to say."

Are there any limitations on places Messersmith would consider?

"Either league, either coast," said Osmond. "He's pitched in both leagues, so familiarity with the hitters wouldn't be a factor."

Messersmith spent five years with the California Angels of the American League before being traded three years ago to the Dodgers of the National League in a seven-man swap. There were reports the Angels would be entering the bidding, but Osmond said Tuesday he had not heard from them as yet.

Leach Ties NHL Record

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

For a right winger, Reggie Leach is about to become an extremist ... and it has nothing to do with politics.

Leach popped in his 52nd and 53rd goals of the season as the Philadelphia Flyers downed the Atlanta Flames 4-2 Tuesday night. That equaled the National Hockey League record for a right wing set last year by Guy Lafleur of the Montreal Canadiens.

Lafleur was also in action but had to settle for three assists as the Canadiens nipped the Pittsburgh Penguins 5-4. In other games, the Boston Bruins and St. Louis Blues skated to a 3-3 tie, the Buffalo Sabres shaded the Los Angeles Kings 4-2, the Chicago Black Hawks whipped the Kansas City Scouts 6-3, the Vancouver Canucks beat the Detroit Red Wings 4-2, the Minnesota North Stars upset the New York Islanders 3-1 and the Washington Capitals mastered the New York Rangers 5-2.

The Flyers scored all their goals in the second period in extending their unbeaten streak to 22 games, one shy of the NHL record. They are 16-0-6 over that stretch. Leach snapped a scoreless tie at 8:32 of the second period and Atlanta's Curt Bennett tied it less than two minutes later but the Flyers scored three goals within 3:38 late in the period — by Andre Dupont, Leach and Dan Salemi.

Montreal came from behind four times in the first two periods before stretching their unbeaten streak to 14 games on Serge Savard's goal with nine minutes to play.

Dave Hrechkosy of St. Louis deflected in Bob Hoss' slapshot early in the final period to forge the tie, his first goal for the Blues since being acquired from California. It came just 78 seconds after John Bucyk gave Boston a 3-2 lead.

Rick Martin and Danny Gare scored 1:48 apart in the second period to give Buffalo a 3-1 lead and Fred Stanfield wrapped it up with a blast from just inside the blue line late in the third period.

Cliff Koroll got the second three-goal game of his career as the Hawks remained atop the Smythe Division, two points ahead of Vancouver.

Don Lever snapped a tie at 13:49 of the second period and Dennis Kearns added an insurance marker early in the third period.

U.S. Olympic star Steve Jensen scored on a power play for the decisive goal and Brian Hextall added a shorthanded tally in the third period as Minnesota ended a seven-game losing streak and snapped the Islanders' club record 11-game unbeaten string.

The 2-year-old Caps bettered their victory total of 1974-75 by winning for the ninth time. The Rangers are the only team that has yet to win a game on the Caps' home ice. Washington took a 4-0 lead on goals by Hartland Monahan, Blair Stewart, Jean Lemieux and Gerry McLean while goalie Ron Law blanked the Rangers for more than 34 minutes.

Division Title For Warriors

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
Forward Rick Barry, hampered by a hip injury, scored 14 points in the fourth quarter to give the Golden State Warriors a 110-101 National Basketball Association victory over the Detroit Pistons Tuesday night.

The victory clinched the Western Division title for the Warriors for the second straight year.

Bob Lanier was high for Detroit with 22.

Meanwhile, the Chicago Bulls ripped the Phoenix Suns 120-87. Chicago jumped to a 53-34 lead as Phoenix hit just 28 per cent of its shots from the field the first half. The Bulls extended it to 90-63 after three periods and coasted home, something they have not been able to do very often this season.

Norm Van Lier and John Laskowski led the Bulls with 21 and 19 points, respectively.

Badgers Hire Black Cage Coach

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — William L. Cofield, saying there are advantages to being a black coach, was named Tuesday as University of Wisconsin basketball coach.

Cofield, 36, assistant basketball coach at Virginia, succeeds John Powless and becomes the first black to coach a major sport in the Big Ten Conference.

Asked if he thinks his race can help him recruit players, Cofield replied: "I think I will have an advantage over some because I am black."

Despite its unhappy basketball image, Wisconsin can compete effectively with Indiana, Michigan and other successful schools for basketball talent, he told a news conference.

He said he intends to turn his attention to recruiting as soon as possible, beginning with scrutiny of the state high school basketball tournament in Madison this weekend.

Powless, who coached the Badgers for eight years, announced last month during a 14-game losing streak that he would quit.

Athletic director Elroy Hirsch said Cofield was chosen from among more than 70 applicants, and signed a five-year contract paying $25,000 the first year.

"I am very pleased to accept the position and I think it is a tremendous challenge," Cofield said.

Asked if he thinks Wisconsin's choice of a black has historical significance, he replied: "I wish I could say no. But it is a historical event. I don't necessarily like the extra added pressure."

Last year, Cofield was one of three finalists for the coaching job at Minnesota after Bill Musselman resigned.

The Minnesota Human Rights Department is reviewing a complaint, not filed by Cofield, that racial discrimination figured in the selection of Jim Dutcher over Cofield.

Hirsch had searched for weeks for a replacement for Powless, who had only two winning seasons in eight years as coach.

Cofield announced the selection of an assistant coach, William Ryan, now head coach at San Valley High School, Brookhaven, Pa.

This team won its first five games this season and compiled an 8-2 record, then went into a tailspin and finished with a 10-16 mark.

The Badger slump was accompanied by complaints from team captain Dale Kuehler that basketball receives low priority from Hirsch, a former pro football star.

Hirsch denied the assertions, saying the grievances were simply the product of a dismal season.

Cofield announced the selection of an assistant coach, William Ryan, now head coach at San Valley High School, Brookhaven, Pa.

Asked about his brand of basketball, Cofield said: "I'm a fundamentalist. I believe in keeping control of the game. But you have to make do with the material you have. I like to run."

Cofield said he had scouted Wisconsin and studied its 50-year-old fieldhouse, considered by many to be a handicap in recruiting efforts.

"It is an old facility, but I don't think that that is a handicap," he said. "We are going to deal with the human element."

Cofield, a native of Carrier Mills, Ill., said he planned to recruit in Chicago, Detroit, and other areas as well as Wisconsin.

Prison Newspaper Charges Censorship

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — A federal court suit charging the state Corrections Department with unfair censorship of the Southern Michigan Prison newspaper has been filed by an inmate.

"They censor out articles that complain about prison conditions, things that are certainly not complimentary to the corrections department," said

Ronald L. Jordan, an inmate acting as the legal representative for the newspaper, called The Spectator.

"Their procedures are overbroad and exceed the constitutional scope," claimed Jordan, whose role has been questioned.

Jordan is serving a life sentence for two murders.

Ronald Edwards, Spectator editor, said the criteria used for reviewing Spectator material "is so broad that it permits them (prison officials) to abuse their discretionary power."

"They allow us to reprint matters that may be embarrassing to the institution that have appeared in other newspapers but we can't write it ourselves."

Jordan contends that penal institutions can only delete articles that threaten security, order or rehabilitation.

Daniel D. Trudell, a prison official who supervises the paper, said the review in question "is done using existing prison policy directives."

"All articles are submitted in us for review but this is not considered censorship," he said. He declined to release a copy of the policy.

Trudell said he does not know if Jordan can legally represent the Spectator. And, Jordan was ordered by the State Bar of Michigan's unauthorized practice of law committee in 1974 to stop practicing law. He also has been warned by prison officials to stop helping inmates prepare legal papers without authorization from officials.

Jordan said inmates may engage in mutual legal assistance unless the state provides an alternative.

No hearing date has been set. The suit was filed in U.S. District Court in Detroit.

Cash Awaiting Some Disabled Veterans

Veterans who have been injured and disabled after being discharged from active duty may be missing pensions worth thousands of dollars, according to Rich Lane, V.A. representative at Lake Michigan college.

To be eligible for this benefit, a veteran must be permanently and totally disabled due to non-service connected causes and meet certain income limitations. All veterans over 65 years of age may be eligible based on income needs alone.

Lane said a requirement for non-service connected pension is 90 days or more of active military service during a war-time period.

Lane is available to assist all veterans and eligible dependents of veterans by calling or visiting student services at Lake Michigan college (Monday, Wednesday, Friday, Southwestern Michigan college (Tuesday), and Andrews university (Thursday). Hours are 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Another Cronkite Making A Mark In TV

RICHARD DREYFUSS
And now 'Inserts'

MRS. THATCHER
Another Margaret.

Q: Was the Kathy Cronkite who appeared on "The Waltons" any relation to Walter Cronkite? — L.D. Jackson, Ky.

A: Yes, that's Walter's daughter. Kathy has appeared in several episodes of "The Waltons" and in the movie "The Trial of Billy Jack." Recently, she was cast in the upcoming film, "Network," all about the TV industry. Daddy can give her lots of tips on that assignment.

MORE ABOUT PORN: We had barely given you an item about the possibility of the major Hollywood distributors getting into X-rated films when United Artists opened "Inserts" starring Richard Dreyfuss of "Jaws" fame, and Warner Brothers declared its intent to make a flick called "Hard Core" with Warren Beatty. Although "Inserts" producers are complaining about the X rating and pleading for an R, the movie looked to us like "adults only" fare even if it is more delightful, antic comedy than real pornography. "Inserts" was made in England for under $300,000.

Q: What's this scandal about Mrs. Margaret Thatcher, the leader of the British Tory party?

— Y.B., Winter Park, Fla.

A: That was no scandal, that was just Mr. Thatcher's other wife. In spite of Mrs. Thatcher's prominence as the head of the Conservative party and possibly Britain's first woman Prime Minister she had never bothered to reveal that her husband had a brief World War II marriage to another woman also named Margaret. Now the first Mrs. Margaret Thatcher has been discovered photographed and interviewed — though what all of this proves is not apparent.

QUESTION YOU NEVER ASKED: Why is Playgirl magazine trying hard to change its image? The publication was supposed to be competition for the extraordinarily successful Cosmopolitan. However, they overdid the male nudes and discovered that nearly half the readership, as a result, was homosexual.

Q: With all the hoopla on the Burtons I'd like to know what that forgotten man is all this: Henry Wynberg. — M.G., Madison, Wisc.

A: The Dutchman has been escorting Miss Universe around Hollywood so he seems to be doing okay in the love department. We did hear that he was offering to peddle the intimate details of his latest fling to a couple of scandal publications.

SCANDAL TIME: A top TV star celebrated her son's 22nd birthday by taking him to a swinging Hollywood party. Don't you think a mother and son at an X-rated bash is taking togetherness just a tiny bit too far?

Bill To Make State Pay

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A bill requiring state reimbursement of local governments for the cost of Michigan's May 18 presidential primary has been sent to the House floor. The House Elections Committee unanimously reported the bill out 11-0 Tuesday, one day after a class action suit asking whether local governments can be forced to pay for the primary was filed in Ingham County Circuit Court. Judge Ray Holckiss, who will hear the suit, said of the action, "I feel there may be some pressure being exerted to implement legislation to finance this (the primary)." The suit was filed by Hiron Township Clerk Mary Lou Carey and Northville Township Clerk Clarice Sass. Both townships are in Wayne County. Holckiss set a March 24 hearing date. Meanwhile in the House, Rep. John Engler, R-Mount Pleasant, was unsuccessful in trying to get a proposal to abolish the presidential primary entirely on the docket for discussion.

Today In History

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, March 17, the 77th day of 1978. There are 289 days left in the year. This is St. Patrick's Day.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1776, British troops evacuated Boston by ship during the Revolutionary War. They had been under American siege since the Battle of Bunker Hill seven months earlier.

On this date:

In 1836, the Republic of Texas adopted a constitution.

In 1926, Brazil and Spain blocked Germany's admission to the League of Nations.

In 1938, during the Spanish Civil War, the loyalist-held city of Barcelona was bombed.

In 1941, the National Gallery of Art was opened in Washington.

In 1959, Tibet's Dalai Lama escaped to India during an uprising against the Chinese garrison in Tibet.

In 1970, charges were made against 22 American army officers and enlisted men in the slaying of civilians at My Lai in South Vietnam.

Five years ago: Israel's Premier Golda Meir declared that her country could not trust new U.S. plans for border guarantees in the Mideast.

Today's birthdays: Civil rights leader Bayard Rustin is 68. Democratic Senator John Pastore of Rhode Island is 69.

Thought for today: There is nothing wrong with Ireland except that it is Irish, and there is nothing wrong with England except that it is not Irish — Bernard Shaw, Irish writer, 1856-1950.

Bill To Make State Pay

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A bill requiring state reimbursement of local governments for the cost of Michigan's May 18 presidential primary has been sent to the House floor. The House Elections Committee unanimously reported the bill out 11-0 Tuesday, one day after a class action suit asking whether local governments can be forced to pay for the primary was filed in Ingham County Circuit Court. Judge Ray Hotchkiss, who will hear the suit, said of the action, "I feel there may be some pressure being exerted to implement legislation to finance this (the primary)." The suit was filed by Huron Township Clerk Mary Lou Carey and Northville Township Clerk Clarice Sass. Both townships are in Wayne County. Hotchkiss set a March 24 hearing date. Meanwhile in the House, Rep. John Engler, R-Mount Pleasant, was unsuccessful in trying to get a proposal to abolish the presidential primary entirely on the docket for discussion.

Today In History

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, March 17, the 77th day of 1976. There are 289 days left in the year. This is St. Patrick's Day.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1776, British troops evacuated Boston by ship during the Revolutionary War. They had been under American siege since the Battle of Bunker Hill seven months earlier.

On this date:

In 1836, the Republic of Texas adopted a constitution.

In 1926, Brazil and Spain blocked Germany's admission to the League of Nations.

In 1938, during the Spanish Civil War, the loyalist-held city of Barcelona was bombed.

In 1941, the National Gallery of Art was opened in Washington.

In 1959, Tibet's Dalai Lama escaped to India during an uprising against the Chinese garrison in Tibet.

In 1970, charges were made against 22 American army officers and enlisted men in the slaying of civilians at My Lai in South Vietnam.

Ten years ago: A U.S. midjet submarine located a hydrogen bomb which had fallen from an American bomber into the Mediterranean off Spain.

Five years ago: Israel's Premier Golda Meir declared that her country could not trust new U.S. plans for border guarantees in the Mideast.

One year ago: The South Vietnamese government decided to abandon the Central Highlands because the region had become militarily indefensible.

Today's birthdays: Civil rights leader Bayard Rustin is 66. Democratic Senator John Pastore of Rhode Island is 69.

Thought for today: There is nothing wrong with Ireland except that it is Irish, and there is nothing wrong with England except that it is not Irish — Bernard Shaw, Irish writer, 1856-1950.

We're looking for our 22nd Lottery Millionaire.

"IT'S A PROMOTION GIMMICK. HE PAYS THEM TO LAUGH AT THE COMICS!"

Roger, You Fool! They'd Laugh For Nothing!

Oh, it's true — as Roger's subscription-selling gambit illustrates — that customer satisfaction is the most effective advertising. But, imagine paying someone to laugh at the H-P's comics!

Our selection of comic strips is carefully chosen to entertain family members of all ages. Some are knee-slappers, some just whimsical — some are adventure or mystery stories. Frankly, we think they're the cream of the "comic" crop.

Don't be influenced by the hired hilarity of Roger's stooges. But do read the H-P comics every evening. We know you'll enjoy them.

Clothing Seized By St. Joe Police

St. Joseph police said Tuesday they recovered 18 pantsuits and dresses they said were taken from at least two St. Joseph stores last Friday.

Det. Lt. Thomas Cooper and Patrolman Dennis Soucek said they recovered the clothing, valued at about $2,300, undamaged under truck loading dock at Vail Rubber Works on Ann street.

They said clothing was recovered by re-tracing what they believed to be escape route of two women who allegedly stole items.

Two Robbins, Ill., women, Christine Westbrook, 34, and Gail Simms, 24, are jailed on charges of larceny in a building in connection with the alleged thefts.

at $625, school owner Charles Neal told police.

Other thefts investigated by city police were:

—A portable television, two leather coats and two pairs of pants, all valued at $372, owned by Acie Gilmore, 795 Waukonda avenue, from room 606, Fidelity building, 189 Michigan street. —A record player and camera, valued at $217, and $115 in change, from the apartment of William Dixon, 188 Garfield

Clothing Seized By St. Joe Police

St. Joseph police said Tuesday they recovered 19 pantsuits and dresses they said were taken from at least two St. Joseph stores last Friday.

Det. Lt. Thomas Cooper and Patrolman Dennis Soucek said they recovered the clothing, valued at about $2,300, undamaged under truck loading dock at Vail Rubber Works on Ann street.

They said clothing was recovered by re-tracing what they believed to be escape route of two women who allegedly stole items.

Two Robbins, Ill., women, Christine Westbrook, 34, and Gail Simms, 24, are jailed on charges of larceny in a building in connection with the alleged thefts.

"Shoplifting of this magnitude is a big cost burden on the entire public," police quoted Chief Tom Gillespie as saying.

Finding Tenants Is Hard

DETROIT (AP) — Finding tenants to fill downtown Detroit's new Renaissance Center is lagging 50 per cent behind predictions, according to leasing agents at the giant riverfront complex. "I'm concerned, but not panic-stricken," said Wayne S. Doran, executive vice president of the Downtown Development Corp., developer of the project.

Two Experts Removed

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has abruptly removed two experts from a panel on polychlorinated biphenyl because of their ongoing research on the toxic chemical involved in Michigan's mass livestock poisoning. Dr. Walter Meester, director of medical research at Biogenetic Memorial Medical Center in Grand Rapids, and Lynn Willet of the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center.

'Good Neighbor' Idea

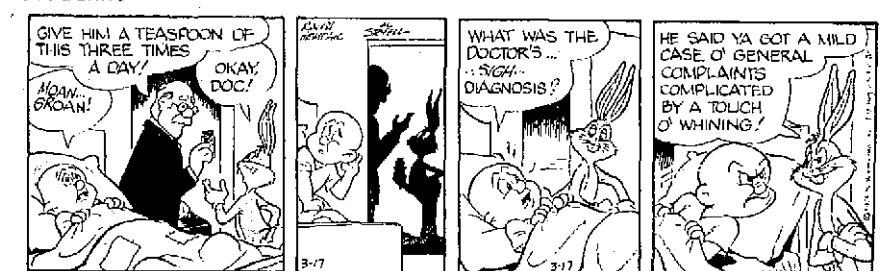

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state's two largest electric companies should consider giving credit on electric bills to customers whose power died during the recent ice storm, says state Public Service Commissioner William Ralls. "It would be a good neighbor policy" for the utilities to reduce the monthly service charges normally paid by the 600,000 customers who were left in the dark by power failures, Ralls said Tuesday. Spokesmen for the utilities, Consumers' Power and Detroit Edison, called the idea "unreasonable," saying the storm cost them millions of dollars already, must spend to restore power to darkened homes throughout the southern half of the Lower Peninsula.

Finding Tenants Is Hard

DETROIT (AP) — Finding tenants to fill downtown Detroit's new Renaissance Center is lagging 50 per cent behind predictions, according to leasing agents at the giant riverfront complex. "I'm concerned, but not panic-stricken," said Wayne S. Doran, executive vice president of the Downtown Development Corp., developer of the project.

Indian Free College Tuition Up For Vote

By MARY STEVENSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A bill supporters say could give Indians the incentive to finish school by guaranteeing free college tuition is scheduled for a final House vote.

In debate in the House Tuesday, the bill's supporters said Indians deserve the extra help and opponents said the state can't afford it. The measure, sponsored by Rep. Jackie Vaughn III, D-Detroit, was moved into position for a final vote.

The bill would provide free tuition for North American Indians in Michigan community or junior colleges, colleges or universities.

A student would have to attend full-time, be academically qualified and a legal resident of the state for at least 18 months.

"This is a very economical piece of legislation," Rep. Thomas Sharpe, R-Howell, said. "This program is going to put some extra incentive into young Indians to go through school because it will assure the opportunity to go to college."

Rep. John Maynard, D-St. Clair Shores, said the state can't afford the bill and said "good intentions and a quarter will buy you a cup of coffee."

But Rep. Dominic Jacobetti, D-Negaunee, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, said the bill would cost the state only about $50,000 annually.

"I say shame on the legislature if we don't want to pass a bill to help the down-trodden people in this state," he said. "The day may well come when you may be able to say you served in this legislature when we passed this, and an Indian may be president of the United States of America."

Rep. Michael Conlin, R-Jackson, tried unsuccessfully to amend the bill to allow free tuition for all minorities.

"It's only a matter of time. If we set this precedent, that we will include the other groups," he said. "We ought to examine now whether Michigan can afford these types of programs."

House Speaker Bobby Crim.

D-Davison, told those who were hesitant about the bill that "you ought to visit the reservations and see how they live. This bill is going to cost a very infinitesimal amount of money in an attempt to rectify some of the things done to Indians."

Decision May Affect Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's decision to limit imports of specialty steel could increase prices of some products to consumers because the imports are 20-30 per cent below domestic prices. The exact effect on prices won't be known right away, but even officials of the U.S. steel industry, who have advocated import restrictions, say prices could increase in the short-run. However, they have argued that consumers would benefit in the long-run from a strengthened domestic steel industry. Specialty steel, which is only about 1.5 per cent of total U.S. steel production, is primarily stainless and alloy tool steel. Stainless is used extensively in the food, chemical, textile, pollution control and electrical power industries, while alloy steels are used to make tools, including tools for the manufacture of nearly all industrial products.

served in this legislature when we passed this, and an Indian may be president of the United States of America."

Rep. Michael Conlin, R-Jackson, tried unsuccessfully to amend the bill to allow free tuition for all minorities.

"It's only a matter of time, if we set this precedent, that we will include the other groups," he said. "We ought to examine now whether Michigan can afford these types of programs."

House Speaker Bobby Crim,

D-Davison, told those who were hesitant about the bill that "you ought to visit the reservations and see how they live. This bill is going to cost a very infinitesimal amount of money in an attempt to rectify some of the things done to Indians."

Decision May Affect Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's decision to limit imports of specialty steel could increase prices of some products to consumers because the imports are 20-30 per cent below domestic prices. The exact effect on prices won't be known right away, but even officials of the U.S. steel industry, who have advocated import restrictions, say prices could increase in the short-run. However, they have argued that consumers would benefit in the long-run from a strengthened domestic steel industry. Specialty steel, which is only about 1.5 per cent of total U.S. steel production, is primarily stainless and alloy tool steel. Stainless is used extensively in the food, chemical, textile, pollution control and electrical power industries, while alloy steels are used to make tools, including tools for the manufacture of nearly all industrial products.
